HOW highly favoured by Divine Providence the Eastern region has been is known to every Christian. The East was the birth-place of the Incarnate Word, and year after year pilgrims from every quarter flock thither to visit His cradle. To the East was primarily committed the diffusion of the good tidings—the spreading of that evangelical truth which, issuing from the tender heart of Jesus, was to be proclaimed by the inspired lips of His Apostles. From the East, bounteously enriched with the invalu-able gifts of faith, these faithful messengers went forth and scattered over the face of the earth that fire which the Son of God had brought down from heaven, and which He so earnestly desired should be enkindled. Throughout the East, numbers of men, whose names still live for holiness, wisdom, and learning, arose in succession of time to guard and to protect the sacred deposit which they had received from the Apostles, and by which they were able to supply all Christian nations with such a wealth of truly scientific and philosophical doctrine as was sufficient to settle the bases of all Christian legislation, and of every noblest institution; a wealth of doctrine which brought forth that enlightenment, that enduring and ever-increasing enlightenment, which, as Eusebius said, "shoots like a sunbeam over the earth."

Hence the expediency of turning from time to time—especially when controversies arise—towards that favoured region, so as to draw from its primitive tradition, as from a fountain, pure and soul-refreshing waters, by a diligent inquiry into the teaching of its great writers, who faithfully handed on to their successors those inviolable truths which they had received from their forefathers, in whose ears was still ringing the voice of the Apostles, which echoed onward the sound of those sacred words that were eagerly caught, in their freshness and beauty, while they were dropping from the tongue of the Incarnate Son of God, whose mouth, as St. Peter expresses it, breathed nothing but life eternal.

It is thus that the happy connexion of that Church of the East (which St. Augustin called "the root of the Churches of the West") with the Great Roman Church will be fully recognized; and thus, I hope, by so evident a parallel, the brilliancy of its truth will strike more and more forcibly upon the upright and unbiased mind; so that Catholics, well rooted in their faith, will simply be confirmed in their allegiance to the Old Religion; the wavering and unstable, who move on with the shifting tides of opinion, will be attracted by Divine grace to renounce their doubtful and dangerous hesitations, and lay hold of the whole truth, "bringing into captivity all their thoughts to the obedience of Christ" (2 Cor. x. 5); whilst those who are still wandering outside, as soon as they are convinced of the unchangeable verity, and come to behold the truth in its full light, will also heartily embrace it, and courageously betake themselves to the one fold of Christ.

These, my dear readers, were the thoughts that passed through my mind, and were fondly cherished within my heart, when, a year ago, I was searching, during the Vatican Council, these several documents concerning the primacy and the prerogatives of St. Peter and of his successors—the Roman Pontiffs.

May this humble work, which I ventured upon in the simplicity of my heart, relying solely on the power of truth, bring forth in every Christian soul the same priceless gifts of the Holy Ghost which I am daily asking for myself, praying to the Lord, with the Royal Prophet, "Teach me goodness, discipline, and science” ("Bonitatem et disciplinam et scientiam doce me"), or as I carry these words engraven on my episcopal seal, in the original Syrian language, spoken by our Lord Jesus Himself, PRÆNOTANDA.

THE Syrian Church branches off, as it were, into four families. The first is that which is simply called the Syrian, to which I have the happiness to belong. The second is that of the Maronites. The third, that of the Chaldeans, or Nestorians. The fourth, that of the Greek Melchites. This last, owing to the vicissitudes of the Byzantine schism by which she has been long tossed about, has preserved hardly any vestige of the truly Syrian Church, except the use of the Syriac language, or merely the Syrian characters. It is for this reason that we have omitted her testimonies, which should rather be referred to the Greek Church.

The tradition of the Syriac Church of Antioch from the fourth century, is found in nearly two hundred Documents, which the Editor collected in the last year from the Syriac codices preserved in the Vatican Library, and in the Museum of the Urban College of Propaganda.
The works referred to may be classed as follows:—

1st. Liturgical Books of a very ancient origin, in daily use amongst Catholics and non-Catholics.

2nd. Fathers of the Syriac Church, and private schismatic and heretic Doctors.

3rd. Books of Canon Law and of Theology written, or at least recognized and published, by schismatics and heretics.

4th. Lastly, historical Books of non-Catholics and the writings of their Patriarchs.

A PLEA FOR THE TRANSLATION.

When the Most Reverend Transcriber of these documents told us of his intention to have them published, and desired us to add an English translation, we shrunk at first from the proposal, as well on account of the immense difference of the two languages,—the one rigidly concise and comprehensive, the other diffuse and copious,—as because we were not bred in the sombre atmosphere of the British Islands, suggestive of grave and sedate thought, but under the gay, sunny sky of Italy, more favourable pictoribus atque poetis. For both these reasons we felt we could hardly do justice to the manly, stern language of Milton. Encouraged, however, by the hope of friendly assistance, and emboldened by the flattering prospect of furthering those philological studies which we had long cherished, and for which a more welcome opportunity could hardly have been offered a second time, we assented to the request. Have we succeeded, or failed? Our readers will have to determine for themselves.

Our first care has been to secure the right sense of the original, by seldom changing the construction, and endeavouring to be accurate, without any over-exquisite precision. Then, seeing that a work like this gave no other scope for novelty, we thought it advisable to add here and there several, chiefly philological, notes, in the hope of bespeaking the attention even of those who might not otherwise have heeded an uninterrupted catena of Documents. Seeing, moreover, how the pious Transcriber heartily desired to enlist persons of all classes in the cause of truth, by appealing to their hearts rather than to their intellect, we strove to co-operate with him, whenever we had an opportunity, by quoting freely from the Holy Scriptures, and especially where any allusion was to be found to that Blessed Root of Jesse,—or, as they would have it now, "The Root of Ephraim,"—whom all alike wish to exalt; remembering the words of the learned and pious Abbeloos, where he says: "Candide fateror quia jucundum mihi erat tamquam primitias mearam in hac palaestra exercitationum anecdotum elogium alma Virginis eruere, sicque ejus patrocinio Syriaca mea studia auspiciari."—De Vita et Scriptis S. Jacobi Sarugensis, Pref. xv.

Even in this time of such manifold and most pernicious works of fiction, we do not despair of finding readers for serious books; nay, we hope that even pure maidens and grave matrons may still be found desirous of better food for their noble intellect, striving to emulate the Lastas, Paulas, and Demetrias, of the good old times of St. Jerome. Encouraged by this suggestive work of the pious Ninevite Prelate, they might be prompted to search for themselves into the most valuable treasures of Syriac literature. On approaching its austere grand language, they would first wonder at the apparent deficiency of what the grammarians call the present tense. But they will soon understand that the religious children of Sem hardly esteemed any present thing worth noticing. Nay, the past, too, in their mysterious language, is but lightly touched in short radical forms; whilst all the machinery and rich economy of their verbs (Zeitworts) aims at that future in which the shadowy, unreal things of this time will have ceased, and nothing but a blissful eternity will remain.—"Quod dicitur fuit non est, et quod dicitur erit nondum est. Deus autem ESSE tantum novit, fuisse et futurum esse non novit."—S. Hieron., de Deo et Nominibus ejus. They will also be able to appreciate for themselves the emphatic energy of expression in the Syriac language, by which four original words of the Lord's Prayer (Abun dhashmaio nethkadosh shmok) may comprehend what an English translation cannot give in less than ten: (Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name\(^1\) . . . .)

\(^1\) "The Chinese form of the Lord's Prayer (Being heaven me—another Father who, etc..) shows a style," says Farrar, in his Origin of Language, "not unlike the natural language of very young children." This may be true, in a certain degree of the Chinese. Yet to those who make light of the ancient Aramean languages, we would suggest to consult on the subject what the great historian of Italy, Carlo Botta, says about "le nostre povere linguette d'Europa," (these poor little European languages,) compared with the strength and manliness of the Oriental.
Owing to the impetus which the Nitrian MSS. in the British Museum have given to so interesting a study, the cultivation of Syriac literature has certainly made great progress in this country during these last forty or fifty years; and we trust it may still continue to advance.

1  שולַתנָה shultonin. This strong expression of the Syriac original, which calls to mind the title assumed by the Turkish emperors (Sultan, Soidano), springs from the root shalt (presfuit, dominatus est), which tells better than any other language the imperiousness of the English command, "thou shalt." It is pretty often used in the Scriptures; as where it is said that our Lord taught: אַלַּחַת (ak mshaltko) as one empowered to do it (Mark i. 22), and where the Master gives his servants שולַתנו (shultono), that is, full power, entire liberty (Gewalt, Baldu), to do the work they are appointed to.—The plural regular form is used by St. Peter (1 Ep. iii. 22) and St. Paul (Eph. i. 21) to design the angelical Powers, and in another form (shaltone) by the Psalmist (ii. 2), where the Greek has δικουτες, and the Vulgate reges terrae et principes, the kings of the earth and the rulers.
chosen, set at the head of His disciples, and gifted with a godlike power of loosing and binding.

III.

I will appoint Simon chief of My ministers: I will deliver all My treasures into his hands: I will give him the keys of both earth and heaven: as

2 The Syriac adverb αληθινοθεος, divinitus; θεικως, Naz., reminds us of the Arabic الله (Allah) and more particularly of the Hebrew אלהים (Elōhim), Gen. vi. 2, whose mystic plural tells the Unity of God in three distinct persons. It is well worth remarking in this place another Syriac adverb with a directly opposite meaning, i. e., χαρακτοθεος, corporaliter, i.e. secundum carnem. It is used John viii. 13—15, Τωεισ κατα την σαρκα κρινετε, "You judge after the flesh you do," words said to the Pharisees, who had objected to Jesus Christ, as some do now to His vicegerent, saying, "Thou givest testimony of Thyself; Thy testimony is not true." Jesus' answer is well known; yet not understood, or not considered enough.

3 unterono. See note 1; to which we may add the impressive words of our Lord, σαλητ . . . και σαλητ, (αλους ήκα . . . και ετυμαται εκαβε,) "I have power to lay down (My life), and I have power to take it again." John x. 18.

4 Husbandmen would have perhaps been in this place a rendering more suitable to the original χαρακτοθεος "phalho" than servants or ministers; seeing that this Syriac plural, even in the spelling, is perfectly in keeping with the singular χαρακτοθεος (phalho), used John xv. 1, where Christ, after having proclaimed Himself the true vine, added χαρακτοθεος ονω βου χαρακτοθεος, "and My Father is the husbandman."—Though there are several Syriac words used to express different sorts of ministries, (thus our Lord says, "I am in the midst of you," a Meshamkono, that is a minister, or "one that serveth," Luke xxii. 22,) none is better than this, coming from the root "philah," inservavit, attendit (heeded or listened), as telling of the free agency of one who acts not as a slave or bondsman, but as a trustworthy friend to whom “The husbandry and management of the house” (Shakespeare) has been committed. Such indeed as Timothy, whom St. Paul (Rom. xvi. 21) called his “gōleb,” that is, his fellow-labourer, adjutor, σύνεργος: and that devout Soldier of whom the Acts of the Apostles say that he waited continually upon Cornelius (Στρατιώτης τῶν προσκατερούντων αὐτῷ). Acts x. 7.

(John) did not go into (the sepulchre) until the perfect Simon arrived:

6 Of this Syriac poetry may fairly be said what has been stated of Propertius: “Its lines are marvellously full; full of colour, full of meaning, positively crowded with thought; put with a conciseness beyond what even the Syriac language seems to allow.” —Unable to give it in English verse, as it should be given, we content ourselves with keeping each line distinct;—Though we may not have rendered the original in all its rich turns of expression, we have done our best to give our readers the spirit of these most interesting fragments of the Bishop of Batna-Sarugi.

7 Gmıro, — completus, perfectus, numeris omnibus absolutus. This is both a Syriac and Hebrew word, springing from the root שמר gmar, that means to achieve (achieve), or make an end of any thing. Like the Syriac שארין sharirin (Acts xv. 29), it is used especially in Hebrew as a wish of happiness, or a royal greeting (see Esdr. vii. 12, where it is interpreted “perfect peace” (?) or “be it all right with you!”); and sometimes as the highest possible perfection. Thus Christ desiring His disciples to labour after perfection, expressed Himself in these very words: שארין, שארין שארין which means, “Be perfect, even as your Father... is perfect.” Matt. v. 48.—Ritualists will perhaps be pleased to be told that the same Syriac word, with a slight change of vowels, is made use of in the Syrian churches to signify the Corporate (Gomuro), wherewith they cover, and \(^8\) This Syriac word \(\text{dámso} \) like the Latin \(\text{domus} \), is still retained in the English “dome,” “domestic,” and “domicile.” About the analogous Greek neologism \(\text{αὐδάμος} \) (Apoc. xxi. 18, \(\text{dúmsorutho} \)), see Franz Passow’s \text{Handwörterbuch der Griechischen Sprache}.

\(^9\) \(\text{talitha} \) \(\text{drūko} \), “the child of spirit,” or the spiritual child, is a most fit name for the beloved Apostle, whose spirit was pure and simple like that of a child. It is particularly worth noticing, that where the Evangelist St. Mark (v. 41) relates the fact of the resurrection of the daughter of the ruler of the synagogue, the Syriac version has simply the two words—preserved from that time in nearly every other language—\(\text{Talitha cumē} \), without any further explanation, which was not wanted there, where our Blessed Lord uttered those powerful words, which mean “\(\text{Damsel, arise.}\)”

\(\text{Talitha}, \) or as the Syrians pronounce it, \(\text{thitho} \), is the feminine of talio, a boy or a child; and is repeated (Luke viii. 51), where the Greek, instead of κοράσιον (damsel), has ἥ παις, ἅγελιου (child, arise).

—Our readers will not be displeased if we notice here the several Ages of mankind in Syriac. As long as the human creature remains in the womb of the mother, or in swathing clothes, it is simply a ἱαλός, an εμβρυων (παίς ἑνείς αὐτος, 11. xxiv, 726); it answers to the Saxon plur, ēhight, or bruax, the jeweler's bratt (f).—King David pointed to it where he said, "Thine eyes did see my hulo: Imperfectum meum (ακατέργαστον μου), viderunt oculi Tui." Ps. cxxxviii, 16. Hulo is used where the Greek text has βρέφος, such as Luke i. 41, ἐκσκινθης τὸ βρέφος ἑν τῇ κοιλῃ αὐτῆς ('Ελισαβέτ), and Luke ii. 12, βρέφος ἐσπαραγωμένον κείμενον ἐν φάτνῃ. But Luke xviii. 15, προσεβερον αὐτῷ τὰ βρέφη, has ἱαλός, γεννητός, natus, a baby, un bimbo, of nearly seven. ἱαλός, παίς, παῖρ, a boy, un fanciullo, till about twelve. Hence to his twenty-eighth, a ἱλαίμος, παιδία, adolescens, a lad, un ragazzino. Thereafter he is considered a ἱμάρα, gabro, ἀνήρ, vir, a man, un uomo, who might, farther on, become a ἱππός, sobo, πρέσβυς, SENEX (from ἱππός, seb? senuit), or even a ἱκανός kashisho, γέρων, silicernium, the old Latin CASVVS. See the old Block of "Ages of Man," in the British Museum.

"Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth . . . before the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, They please me not."

Under the name of lambs (Jesus) meant the Pastors and Prelates of the Church, over which Simon was appointed by his Lord Head and Ruler . . . Likewise under the same name of lambs He meant the holy twelve Apostles and the seventy-two Disciples. Next, under the name of rams He meant the Priests, the Doctors, the Prelates, and Rulers . . . Lastly, he called sheep the holy flock of all the faithful together.

The same, ibid. Cod. eod.

VII.

Under the name of lambs (Christ) referred to children, who are pure and meek; under that of rams, to men; and to women under that of sheep. He likewise named lambs the Apostles, according to that: Behold, I send you as lambs among wolves, i.e. If thouLovest Me, take care of thy brethren the Apostles. And by rams and sheep He signifies Princes and wealthy people.

Denis Bar-Salibi (Bishop of Amida), Comment. in Johan. Cod. Vatic. (Syriac), 289, p. 260, a tergo.

10 From this passage it would appear that ܐܡܪܐ ܐܡܪܐ is the proper word for lambs, ܚܒܓܐ ܚܒܓܐ for rams, and ܢܓܘܘܬܐ for sheep or ewes. The same words, and precisely in the same order, are given in the Syriac Gospel (John xxi. 15—18). Yet after carefully examining their relative meanings in the original, as well as in several other languages, we must confess that the task of unravelling this skein is above our powers. Were we at any time to find out the head of this most entangled hank of thread, we mean to reassume the ܐܚܪܝܐ.

In Cod. Marsh., Bibl. Bodl. oei. No. v. Emar hobô seems to indicate a wild ram.—See Paine Smith’s Syriac Dict., under Olaf. The rest of this most welcome dictionary is still a desideratum.
CHAPTER II.

THE ONLY FOUNDATION STONE.

VIII.

BLESSED art thou, Simon, dispenser of the (divine) treasure, who keepest the keys of the kingdom of God, on whom the building of the holy Church is based. Thou art the kifo (stone) of firmness, which the Lord has placed in the foundation of His churches, that those who work in thy ministry may build up a true confession of faith severed from all doubt.

In commemorating the holy Apostle Simon, the heavens rejoice, and all that is therein. Even the Church on earth, with all her children, sings praises unto Him, who chose and placed him in her foundation, that she should never be shaken by floods, or storms of heresies.

Our Saviour bestowed a vast blessing on Simon, the Prince of the Apostles, whom He made the foundation of the Church, and to whom He said: Feed My weanlings\textsuperscript{11}, the lambs of My flock, feed My sheep. Tend them sedulously and have them reared as children of the heavenly Jerusalem.

XI.

One is His (Christ’s) faithful Vicar, Simon Barjonas, who is named Kifo (stone), to whom (Christ) Himself made the promise, saying: \textit{Upon this stone I will build My Church}; and again: \textit{To thee I will give the keys of the heavenly kingdom}. Christ in truth did not say to all the Apostles: “I will build upon you, I will give you.” . . Although to each Disciple was given the priestly office, the singular primacy which is a spiritual paternity, has not been given to all, but to a single one, as to a faithful Vicar of the one true God, that he should rule and guide all, and be over all his brethren.

Cod. Vatic. (Syriac), 460, p. 181.

12 Sharir dumsok. Such as a zealous geologist would call "a megalithic or precyclopean structure." V. not seq.

13 Shariro. This new title (see note 7) given to St. Peter, is, like many other words employed by St. James, full of meaning: it implies firmness and stability, and chiefly truth; it might equally be rendered by strong, sound, whole, ἰσχυρός, by mighty, valiant, and sturdy, ἰσθανός, as by sure and true, ἰσθανός άληθής. The Syriac root shar, like the Hebrew שָׂר, shārīr, confirmatus est, means occasionally that hardiness or staunch vigour which is nothing but nerves and sinews. Thus it is said of Behemoth, that his shārīr, ἰσχύς, was in his loins (Job xl. 16). It is also written in St. Mark, that when the Apostles went forth preaching, Christ was working with them, confirming (mashār) their words. Its meaning of truth is apparent there, where Pharisees and Herodians addressing our Lord, say, "Master, we know that thou art shārīr (true), scimus quia veraes es (Matt. xxii. 16); and where Pilate says to Christ, monau shoro? (what is it the truth?)

The Saxon sūpada, and our colloquial expression "to be sure," pron. shure, probably come from the same root. The Trustees of the British Museum in a Syrian metropolis would be Shariri!

14 Bath-imomo, Daughter of Day. A most telling expression for the Church, which is always in the bright day XIV.

(Gave the bride) an earnest\(^\text{16}\) to overcome death and Satan.

of Him who is the Light, καὶ ἐξερχόμενος and who told His timid disciples, "Are there not twelve hours in the day? If any man walk in the day βημόμοιο he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world. But if a man walk in the night, βημόμοιο he stumbleth, because there is no light in him." (John xi. 9.)

The word "Bath" (filia) comes in frequently in the composition of very strong-telling Syriaems, such as Bath-biomo (filia frideris) for a sacred virgin; Bath-kolo (filia vocis) for the echo; Bath-osio for the circumcision, &c. Cf. Gen. xlix. 22, δέκαρηστρεφον.

\(^{15}\) Shari b-betho. "Came home" was the first English expression which occurred to our mind as a fit metaphrase of the Syriac one, much the more so that it recorded the Johannine saying, εἰ τὰ τιά ήδειν, ἐν προπία ἐνεύσι (John i. 11), and that also of Baruch (iii. 38), *et cum hominibus conversatus est, He “tabernaeled” amongst us. Yet, re-examining this rather obscure and difficult fragment of the Sarugensis, and after much considering its meaning, we came to the conclusion that the somewhat amphilo-gical expression we have substituted would be the best after all, since it would convey some idea of the polysemous expression of the original, which, besides the meaning of "coming home," seems to have that also of "initiating the house," or engaging one-self upon her building, or taking it, as it were, in one’s hands.

\(^{16}\) Rumiono. This Syriac word, which means a favour or a token (munus, un souvenir, un regalo, ein Denkzeichen), is particularly used in the Syrian Office in the sense of a nuptial gift, strena nuptialis. Its special value, however, in this place, seems to be that of earnest, or a pledge given as security (piagnus, un gage, una caparra, ein Unterpfand), Arrhabon. There is in Mar Jacob’s Oration on Shamuna and Guria another passage, which the syrologus Canon of Westm. had translated: "with blood which ran down from His wounds He did espouse the Bride, and from the necks of His bridegroom friends the SPAR demanded blood." But, after reflection, he confessed to having wrongly translated, in consequence of his having been ignorant of the meaning of rumiono, which in the MS. was so written as to seem like χωμον ρυμνόι, ρουφαλα (!) Rumpia. (Aulus Gellius.) See Cureton’s Ancient Syriac Docum., p. 106.

He began to build her, and upon the Great Stone, He had found, Set her building, whose height was to transcend the clouds. Two-and-ten\textsuperscript{21} stones He had laid in the Palace of Light\textsuperscript{22}. But One was singled out to support the great building. He dressed, marked and carved the main stone He had found. And set it deep in the great building He was raising. The Bridegroom chose it, His Father carved it in that revelation\textsuperscript{23}, And the Holy Ghost had it finished and settled in the foundation of the Church.

\textsuperscript{21} Such is the literal Syriac expression in this place. A rather poetical one, often met with in Dante, &c. The Syriac Gospels use the simpler form \textit{threhsor}, twelve.

\textsuperscript{22} \textit{Birath nuhro}. The slight alteration of an iota brought us at first to translate this word the “Daughter,” instead of the “Palace” of Light. How chary one needs to be even of an iota!

THE ROCK OF FAITH.

Upon that rock of the household of Simon, the Prince of the Apostles, I am built up, and have nothing to fear.—The Church took up the burden\(^25\),

\(^24\) Κίπης, Heb. נון, Greek Νέρας, Latin Petra; a word of deep meaning,—"signifying in itself," says W. Allies, "the place which Simon was to hold in the Church of Christ . . . declaring by its very sound that he should be laid by the builder, as a foundation of the structure about to be raised."

St. Chrysostome felt the strength of this word when, commenting on the text John i. 40, he said that he (Cephas) was really Peter (a Rock) "both in name and in deed." It had been said of Christ, Behold I will lay a stone in the foundation of Sion, a tried stone, a corner stone, a precious stone, founded in the foundation. He that believeth, let him not hasten . . . This which (Christ) had of Himself, and by virtue of His divine power, as the Word of God, He would communicate in a degree, and by dependence on Himself, to another. . . . Christ is the rock, but yet He did not deny the grace of this name to His disciple, that he should be Peter, because he has from the Rock, firm constancy, immovable faith.—S. Ambrose on Luke, lib. vi. n. 97.

majestic title, given to the Church of Christ, reminds us of the grand Δαυδαλμα, Gloriosa dicta sunt de te, Civitas Dei, "Glorious things are spoken of thee, O City of God. Selah" (Psalm xxxvi. 3); and of the most sublime prayer of our Blessed Lord, "Father, the hour is come; glorify Thy Son, that Thy Son also may glorify Thee.
. . . I have glorified Thee on the earth. . . . And now, O
Father, glorify Me with the glory which I had with Thee before the world was" (John xvii.); where the Syriac original applies constantly to the radical ᴹˢʰᵃᵇᵃ, clarificavit.

of the original words μαύλο δ-σθίλι. See also note 30.

that is with sleights, intrigues, and finesses, with artful tricks and devices.

One might here also notice how near to the Syriac radical枋, comes the English scheme, and the mischievous intriguing schemer.

30 "vectis maxima qua levantur lapides" (Castel.), is clearly akin to the Greek mơχλός, a lever, a crossbar. - The Greek form is here easily to be "discovered under the Syriac veil," as Ed. Sachau has lately remarked.— Vide Amos i. 6, Kai συντρησα μοχλον Δαμασκου.

31 Thou art CHRIST (¶ησαύρα), the Son of the living God (Matt. xvi. 16). Mshiho, Heb.מָשִׁיחָ (māshīḥā) anointed, from מָשַׁח (māshā) to anoint, is the proper NAME of the Saviour of the world, Ἰματος, the anointed, the Messiah. When the woman of Samaria saith unto our Lord, "I know that the Messias cometh" (John iv. 25), the Syriac text does not add the usual clause (who is called, that is, which means, Christ). That was unnecessary to them who understood perfectly well the meaning of the original word. See note 9.

32 Literally "gave him מָשַׁח beatitude. A similar phrase is to be seen in Luke i. 48, where our Blessed Lady, prompted by her Divine Spouse, exclaimed, (Tābo neton li sharbotho culhen) μακαρίων με πάσαι αι γενεαί, Beatam me dicit omnes generationes, All generations shall call me blessed. "Tutte le genti Mi chiameran beata" (Manzoni, Inni Scurt).
The Church inherited her faith from the Apostles, especially from Simon Kipho, to whom our Lord said: "Thou art a rock, and upon thee I will build My Church." That is to say: Thou art a root and a foundation, a pattern to the whole body of those who do believe in Me, and behave themselves as thou didst, when thou didst lay open the truth which the Father revealed to thee from on high. Hence it is that the gates of hell, that is, infidel people, unjust kings, tyrant emperors, heretics, and forgers of false doctrines shall never succeed to overthrow her (the Church).

Whosoever then shall separate himself from her will never belong to the sons of light, nor to any of them who build their houses upon the immovable rock; houses, which will not be shaken, whilst the swelling main is seething, whilst the wild billows are breaking upon them, as Christ had declared it in His parable. They will never be like those wretched communities (churches separated from Peter) who erected their building on sandy ground, which, as soon as the rain pours, the wind blows, the sea begins to swell, and the raging storm to roll its mighty waves high above them, are mercilessly battered and utterly ruined, nay, their very foundations are cleared off entirely, because their building was not based upon the Rock, which is Simon.

And Isaiah (lxii. 2) said: And thou shalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of the Lord shall name. Now these figurative promises were fulfilled in the advent of Christ, when He said to Simon: Thou art a rock, and upon thee I will build My Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail over thee, nor shall overcome thee. And again: To thee I deliver the keys of the heavenly kingdom; what thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven. Such is the new name which the Lord hath named in favour of the Church, as David said . . . "I will give praise to Thee among the congregation (Church) of peoples."

35 ἡσστὴθο L-kushtho, might fairly be rendered by equity, bounty, or righteousness. In this last sense it seems to have been used Luke xii. 57, where Christ reproaches those hypocrites who can easily “discern the face of the sky,” but hardly the aspect of kushtho, viz., of that which is right, quod justum est: such as those who "Veritatem Dei in injustitia detinent," ἄληθεια . . . ἐν ἀληθίᾳ (Rom. i. 18).—St. Ephraim begins his beautiful Hymn to the Holy Trinity with this line |Αληθείας ἡσστὴθος |Αληθείας ἡσστὴθος, Symbolum veritatis.—About 'Αληθεία, see the learned note of Allies, "Form. of Christ," ii. 140.
Whereupon He was to raise the edifice

Adversity, to raise upon him

The structures; as even in faith
He was to bind peoples with people.

XXVIII.

Scholars apprised of the truth, seek the reason why our Saviour called Simon Barjona (Kipho) a stone.—Since Christ himself, our great Saviour, is the true One, why did He call for another Headstone of the building? As in the (ancient) law several were called Christs and Saviours of the people, so Simon was graced with the surname of KIPHO.
But one is the true Christ, the great Saviour, [who nevertheless did occasionally apply to others those very same names.] Christ the true Stone was, after all, to betake Himself to heaven, and hide Himself from human eyes; hence the reason why He established on earth, His vicar Simon, and had him named the corner-stone of His building.

The same, ibid., part ii, serm. 3, cent. ii., strophe 59.

36 Here truth is ître shoro, about which expression see note 13; adding the telling passage of St. Paul (Rom. i. 17), where he says that "the righteousness of God is revealed from faith to faith," and that the wrath of God is against the unrighteousness of men who hold shoro in unrighteousness.
Rightly did Christ call him (Simon) Kipho.—None before him had ever been called by such a name.—He was in truth to be the foundation and the cornerstone of the building. Christ did not call him after His own name, a Saviour, for many saviours had been amongst the people; and as He did not wish to abrogate the power of Barjona, [as it had been the case with those past saviours,] He did not even call him Christ, for many Christs had been in Juda, which were likewise superseded by the Son of God. But He did not put aside with them Kipho.

The same, ibid. Assemani, ibid.

The Disciple:—Master, I wish you would tell me the meaning of our Blessed Lord’s words to Peter: "Blessed art thou, Simon . . . ?"

The Master:—By this Christ—blessed be His name—wished to assure Peter that He appointed him His vicar on earth, to redeem souls from sin. . . . I named thee Rock . . . Πέτρος (Peter) is the Greek name for rock. . . . "Thou art Peter, upon thee I will build My Church;” upon thee, O Peter, I will raise My congregation. I am the true Rock, the steadfast foundation. By loving me thou becamest My disciple, and wast assimilated with Me, and built upon Me. I make my own Self a foundation for thee. Thus thou becomest a rock like Myself. Upon thee I go on building My congregation. Whoever becomes thy disciple will be built upon thee, who art the Rock.

THE CHURCH BASED ON HIM AND HIS FAITH.

37 Zmar, sing, καλέσαι, II. i. 1. — From the Syriac root zmar, cecinit, psallit, comes the subst. zmoro, a smart, quick, lively song; a gush of melody, such as the Elder Son in the Gospel (Luke xv. 25) coming from the field, and drawing nigh to his father’s house, chanced to hear (Συμφονία, music and dancing). — The NET, that ancient stringed instrument which the Hebrews made use of, and which the English version of the Bible called Psaltery, is also rendered in Syriac by zmoro.

Music itself, we suspect, has a Messianic origin: from the two-fold Syriac root mashah, comes nshuhto, a measured composition: (Tennyson, “Song used to great end.”) Yet no wonder if a pagan or paganizing philology does stick to the Muses as the probable radical of Music. As far as the mere word goes, the great musician of Hippon did not think, it appears, otherwise. “Quod ejus (Musices) esse nomen existimas? Nam opinor non tibi novum esse omnipotentiam quandam canendi Musis solere concedi. Hae est, ni fallor, illa quae Musica nominatur.” (S. Aug. de Musica, l. i. ch. 1.)

38 Πέτρος. How this decidedly Greek word came to be used in the Syriac language we are not prepared to explain. Certainly it is but an exotic quadriliteral, unwarrantably foundations, whom He appointed Leader of His flock, through whom He laid open the portals of His treasures, wherewith He had enriched thy children.

Greci et Latini vocem suam ab Hebraea, quam ipsi Hebræi a Latina, deductam." (Exercit. ad Nonnii Metaphr. in Joh.) Certainly the Petros we are speaking of is not—

"As a stone that shall to pieces dash." (Milton.)

Three kinds of stones are named, II. vii. 264, seq., where the aboriginal rude way of fighting, between Hector and Ajax is described. First Hector gets hold of a ΑΙΘΩΝ . . . . μέλανα, τριχήν τε, μεγάν τε. Ajax comes next, grasping a ΛΑΑΝ, wherewith he strikes the shield of his foe with the force of a μικρόεσθε ΠΕΤΡΟΣ, which word, evidently the strongest of the three, is used again (II. xvi. 734), where Patroclus is commended for having wielded ΠΕΤΡΩΝ, μάρμαρον, ἑκάλυμα, τὸν οἱ περὶ χείρ ἐκάλυμαν; the very ΧΕΡΜΑΙΟΝ that Aeneas was able to grasp: μέγα ἧραν, ὃ ὅσα γὰ τὸν θάνατον (II. xx. 285). None of these Homeric expressions tells, as far as we see, of breach, or ἁρμα. The Syriac expression καθάτως ημερήσκοντο ... (κιβρὶς ἐμεργῆ), tulerunt lapides ut lapidaret eum, Λίθους ἦν λιθάσωσιν αὐτὸν (John x. 30), seems rather to point at it.—Compare λίθους πετροβόλους of Ezek. xiii. 10, and Bar Bahlai's <\text{ο|ς}>, akin with Brulo, Beryllus, and Bruhlo, Unio, where dis-union, flaw, rift, and breakage seem to be ἀποσθέωσις. See note 40.

42 ἄρχης ὀψ ἐκ μονο, literally means “the head and the first,” or, by hendiadys, “the first head,” the leader, der vornemeste Anführer. Thus 1 Thess. iv. 16, the leader of the angelic companies is called ῥίσις μαλάκ, the chief angel, ἀρχὰργγελος; and John ii. 8, ῥίσις σμοκα, the chief ruler or governor of the feast, ἀρχιστράτηγος. The simple word ἐκ μονο is often used in the same way; thus Matt. xx. 27, “Whosoever will be CHIEF (cadmoio) among you, let him be your servant.”

There are, however, other senses of the same word, such as antique, whence: Καθώς τοῦ πάλαι νέα τροπή (Sophoc. Θησ.). the “Cadmian letters,” and most likely the Cadmium metal.

\begin{itemize}
\item \textit{Rish} is sometimes instrumental in expressing the superlative, as \textit{rish hadath}, the head of joy, \textit{i.e.} the greatest joy, Cant. iv. 14. And \textit{rish maauhe}, the head of seat, \textit{i.e.} the highest or uppermost seat, Luke xi.. 46. It is even a title given to Patriarchs; \textit{Risho drishone}, caput principum, is a title given to the Pope. The title which Abgar assumed in his letter to Jesus Christ, was \textit{rish athro}, caput loci, τοπάρχα.
\item \textit{Shuhlophin}. This Syriac word, like the English shift, the A. S. shipton, and the Runik skipton, seem to spring out of one root, meaning change, alteration, vicissitude. The Apostle St. James (Epist. i. 13) says that “With the Father of Light there is no variableness (shuhlophin), neither shadow of turning,” but here below, on the face of this earth “founded upon the seas, and established upon the floods” (Psalm xxi. 2), all is moving and shifting. It is well worth noticing how this Syriac expression comes at the beginning of that grand Psalm cxxxviii, whose high strains are familiar to every educated English person: “O Lord, Thou hast searched me, and known me. Thou knowest my downsitting and mine uprising; Thou understandest my thoughts afar off; Thou compassest my path and my lying down, and art acquainted with all my shuhlophin (shifting ways).”
\item \textit{Hakim}, cautious, wary, circumspect, wisely cunning, like him of whom our Lord said that “built his house upon a rock” (Matt. vii. 24).
\item \textit{Breh d-nagora}, τοῦ τέκτωνος uid is the reading of Matt. xiii. 37; but Mark vi. 3 has simply \textit{nagoro, ó téktων}, which means a “builder,” or, as Franz Passow gives it in his \textit{Handwörterbuch der Griechischen Sprache}, ein Erbauer; its radical is τέκω, I frame, or fabricate.—Homer, speaking of Pherecles, calls him likewise τέκτωνος uid . . . \textit{δι χεριν ἔποτασε δαίσαλα πάντα} (II. v. 60). 2 Reg. xii. 11, \textit{nagoro, téktων}, is distinguished from \textit{argublo, oikodómos}, faber murarius; the one is from the
Of penance, rather than of any thing else, the Church is exultant 46; since by it all her congregations thrivingly flourish. Should an adulteress or thieves ever struggle to get into (Paradise) without penance, who would open to them the door 47? For this the Church is built upon him who denied, that all her superstructures might closely cement without rifts.

root ṣgar, dolavit, secuit; the other from ṣbal, plasmavit. Arđiclo, architectus, and arđichūtho, architecture, are they not altered forms of the same root?

46 Hthiro, gloristur; from the root hthar, superbīt, inflatus est; like καυχώμεθα ἐν ταῖς θλύψεωι (Rom. v. 3).

47 ὁταρό Tarho, jannua, θόρα, door, Thūr (from the root ὑπα, ἀπερύθ, θείς, threw open). It has nearly the same spelling as taro, jannīor, θόραπος, doorkeeper or porter. Hence the chance of mistaking the one for the other word. We had at first translated this passage by "who but Peter, will be the porter," etc., which after all would have come to the same meaning, seeing that our blessed Lord himself said, I am the door (John x. 9). ἔντος οὐρά, ἐν τῷ τῶν ἀμνῶν ἐμπροσθότων.

49 ἁλῶ ῥόπα, a great marriage-feast, a sacred convivium! This word ἁλῶ has been, it appears, particularly reserved for the heavenly marriage-feast; and thus it is used Matt. xxv. 10: whilst for the temporal marriages of this world the word messthūtho is especially made use of. (Matt. xxii. 8, etc.)

The repeated word smokin (Mark vi. 39) is equally repeated in the Greek by ἄυμνον, ἄυμνον; the only place, we think, in Scripture where this Greek word, else so common with profane writers, is used.—Such, we fancy, in opposition to a Durbar, may be the poor Indian feasts (mere doles of bread and ale), which are now pitilessly to be taxed, if the "Times of India" tells right. See the "Asiatic," May 9.

50 besmone, σύλλεγε ἄράματα, cull the spices. This Syriac word besmono, like the Hebrew经纬, is the radical of the Greek βάλσαμος, of the Latin balsamum, the French baume, and the Italian balsamo. Bάλσαμος, however, was scarcely heard of before Theophrast had written his Nat. Hist., or Palladius his Hist. Lauriac.

Juvenal had noticed the thing under the name of άρμον: "Obvius assiduo Syrophoenix udus amomo" (Sat. viii. 180), and Theocrytus under that of μύρων (Idyl. xvi. 114). Under the same name it is used in Scripture, Matt. xxvi., Luke vii., et alibi. But Luke i. it is called θυμιαμα, suffidentum ex aromatibus; and so it is in the Apocalypse, where the prayers of saints are represented by golden vials full of odours, φυλάς χρυσά γεμοίσας θυμιαμάδων. See Eccl. xxiv. 20, and more especially Cant. iv. 14, where mention is made of "spikenard and saffron, calamus and cinnamon, with all trees of frankincense, myrrh, and aloes, with all the chief spices (Besmê); and v. 16, where the sacred Spouse invites the north wind to blow on her garden, that the spices thereof may flow out; and vi. 2, where it is said of the Beloved that he is gone down into his garden, to the beds of spices, etc. Cf. also what Castelli has said under the analogous word έμόμο aroma.

52 None but a native can thoroughly appreciate the force and delicacy of this Syriasm, as none but an Englishman can sound the meaning of home, or a German that of Heimath.—I caught it, as it were, per transennam from the mouth, nay, I dare say, from the sensible heart of the Archbishop of Mossul, while I was inquiring about its meaning; very much in the same way as I got to the real meaning of Saudade marking the passionate expressions of a Portuguese youth, who assured me that no lastima, no magma, no desejo tão vivo, brando, e terno could ever convey to a Portuguese ear and mind its full signification.

XLI.

The Lord Jesus Christ asked His Disciples, saying:
"Whom do men say the Son of man is?" (Matt. xvi. 13). Peter, confessing Him, answered: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." Then Christ said to Peter: "Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona... Thou art a rock, on thee I will build My Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against her. Thou shalt be named ROCK (Kipho)."

By this name our Lord meant to show His Disciples how warm was the faith of Peter, which is as pure as a flint-stone (silex), without mackle or flaw. And therefore our Lord said to Peter: "Upon thee I will build My Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Moses Barcepha, de Dedicat. Ecclesie, Homil. 1

tal expression for designating the perfect beauty of the Church; that of Cleopatra was simply hinted (Dan. xi. 12) by "a daughter of women," filia feminarum, θυγάτηρ τῶν γυναικῶν. Mark besides what we have said at note 14.
Upon thee I will build My congregation. The gates of hell shall not prevail against it; that is, temptations of devils, temptations of soul and body, shall not prevail or overcome My Church, since she has put herself under thy tuition, since she is built on a rock. . . . How could they (the gates of hell) injure him who is humble of heart, who is subject to others, to whose counsels he gladly yields rather than to his own opinion? Such in fact is (a member) of My congregation, built upon thee, O Rock (Peter), as thou art built upon Me, the solid rock. Such a one surely will become thy Disciple as thou becamest My own; he will be under thy obedience, as thou wast under Mine; he will follow thy advice as thou followedst Mine; he will accept thy corrections as thou receivedst My own; he will be subject to thy orders as thou art subject to My commands. Against him shall never prevail the gates of hell, which are the temptations of the devil, his crafty devices, his deceitful machinations. For as often as the enemy shall put forth his engines against him to entice or inveigle him in any deceitful cogitations, he will as often have recourse to thee for advice, and thou wilt restrain him (from sin) and free him from deceit; so that he may never fall into error, nor his building be brought into ruin; the foundation being firm on Peter, who is a Rock.

THE DENIAL.

XLIV.

He was first, and since he had sinned, and truly repented, He did not descend to a second or a third degree. He rose with tears, and guarded his post unalterably. Carrying in his hand the keys, the name and the mandate. What he had lost by his denial, he recovered by his tears. For in perfection there is not another above him.

54 שמה שמו, a “name” or a “title.” This latter expression, like the well-known one of the poet, “With his former title greet Macbeth,” seemed at first the best; yet the Syriac word שמה, or שמו as it is here given, implies a far greater authority and dignity than that of any king or emperor of this world. It tells of a Name, as the Apostle said, According to the working of the mighty power of God (κατὰ τὴν ἐνέργειαν τοῦ κράτους τῆς λογίας Θεοῦ). Eph. i. 19.

55 ἐπεράσασθον ἐπέρασαν, which means order, charge, high commission; spiritually a far stronger mandate than that “powerful” of Caesar, which Shakspeare has spoken of. Its radical verb is ἐπαίδευσα, præcepit, ἐπερασάτω. It is remarkably telling in Mark xiii. 34, ὅπως ἐπαίδευσάν ὁ επαίδευσάν, ἐναντίον θυροφόρον ἐπερασάτω ὅπως γρηγορόν, et janitori præcepit ut vigilat.

To him (Simon) has been said, “Be thou converted and confirm thy brethren,” which means, after he had repented, not only that he might remain a penitent, but that he might be the teacher and head of his companions, and not only that he might be the teacher of all men, but that he might confirm the very teachers and instructors of men.

George, Patriarch of the Jacobites (circa 790) in (Matt.) Luke xxii. 32.
Cod. Vatic. (Syriac), 154, p. 224.
calls to mind the famous line of the poet astronomer of old:—
“Altius his nihil est: hac sunt fastigia mundi.” (Manil. Astron. 1. i.)

Malphone, a title often given to our Lord, who is the only real teacher of mankind, as St. Augustine has evidently proved in his admirable book, “De Magistro.” He who is the Alpha (the Syriac | oleph is the root of the radical verb aleph, docuit, which by a simple change of vowels becomes elaph, didicit, from which the participle maleph, docens, and the substantive malphone, doctor, a teacher, or a master, ein Lehrer), of Whom the Prophet said, “Whom shall He teach knowledge? and whom shall He make to understand doctrine? Them that are weaned from the milk, that are drawn away from the breasts. For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept, line upon line, line upon line (A. B. C.) ; here a little, and there a little: for with stammering lips and another tongue will He speak to His people” (Is. xxviii. 9—11).—Such indeed is the alphabeting and the abecedarian teaching of Him of whom it was properly said, that “He teacheth man knowledge.” Qui docet hominem scientiam! (Ps. xciii.)

St. Luke (ii. 46) narrated that He was found by His mother sitting messath malphone, in μαθὴν τῶν διδασκάλων, and He Himself said of Nicodemus that he was “master of Israel,” αὕτω malphonois Ἰσραήλ, Σὺ εἶ δ ἡ διδασκάλος τοῦ Ἰσραήλ (John iii. 10). But all such masters and doctors are, properly speaking, merely assistants, or, as it is here insinuated by the next word, mhadrone, helpers or under-teachers. See Matt xxiii. 10.

As they (the Apostles) had forsaken Simon, whom (Christ) had elected to be their chief, He (Christ) turned away from them, and pointing towards Simon, said, “Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to sift you as wheat.” . . . (Luke xxii. 31). And then He went on thus addressing Simon: “I will let you alone for awhile, that Satan may try your weakness, whilst you will forsake Me and flee away. Yet for thee I prayed that thy faith may not fail;” which is to say: Thou wilt deny Me, but I will not let thee persevere to the end in thy denial. . . . And thou, being once converted, mind to confirm thy brethren; that is, although they may be overwhelmed and detached, as thou hast also (been detached, and separated) from Me, do thou confirm and support them in their faith, and receive them, as I did Myself receive and confirm thee.

Nay, he heard his Saviour telling him: "Feed both my lambs and my sheep;" which also He proved by the fact, when he said to him: "Simon, behold, Satan is seeking to sift you as wheat, but I have prayed for thee that thy faith may not fail, and thou, being once converted, confirm thy brethren, that is: that indulgence which has been granted to thee, a sinner, do thou likewise bestow upon thy failing and erring brethren.

He (Christ) left the other Disciples, and came to him who was the first and the head of the assembly, saying to him: "Satan hath often sought to sift you as wheat . . . yet I have prayed for thee that thy faith may not fail . . . and thou, once converted, mind to confirm thy brethren; that is, to be the supporter, the initiator, the teacher of those who, by faith, will come near to Me . . . thou being converted, confirm thy brethren;" which saying was both of one who pardons and of one who was raising him (Peter) to the apostolic Powers.

⁶² Tamimothe, the epithet here given to nekauoth, is mildness, meekness, and gentleness in itself. Our Lord applied it especially to the doves (Matt. x. 16), where He advised His disciples to be ἀθικόν ἀθικῷ ἀλατόν ἀλατῷ, i.e. wise as serpents and harmless as doves. It answers perfectly to the Greek ἵμερος, and the Latin cicur and mansuetus, which signify domestic or tame; another English word, by the way, of a probably Oriental origin, like the German sham, the Greek σιαμάρ, domare, and even the Sanskrit dam. Another short observation upon nekauoth we trust may not be useless. Let us call to mind the famous περιεχόν of Isaiah, which Philip came up to explain to the eunuch of Candace, the chosen man of Ethiopia: “He was led as a sheep to the slaughter, and like a lamb dumb before his shearer,” etc. Here sheep, in its Syriac original, is Ṣemā nakio, προβατον, ovis, evidently from the radical verb Ṣī nko, jugulavit, necavit; that is, an object for sacrifice, a σφαγευς (ein Opferthier). In one of St. James of Serug’s finest madroshe (canticle upon Edessa, lately published by Dr. Wright, in Cureton’s Syriac Doc. [ο]), is this passage: “Draw me after Thee into Thy fold, because I am a sheep (Ṣ) Ṣemā; ἐμεκιο ὁ) gone astray in the world. After Thee I run, and Thy voice do I seek, that the number a hundred by me may be complete, by a lost one which is found.”

_besides_ (the high degree), or to _boot_, i.e. the _better_; (such indeed as are the _humble_ in the Church of Christ,—Drayton’s _baitful valleys_!) Another plural form (_makikê_ makkê) is to be read Luke i. 52, where, to express the most noble Christian virtue, the word was perhaps first uttered by our Blessed Lady in her most sublime canticle, the “Magnificat:” “He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted makikê (them of low degree).” The substantive _makkê_ comes from the whilom-low radical _mak_; _stratus_, _dejectus est_, he was “floored,” struck down and crushed. Yet since the Son of God called upon us to “learn of Him,” because, He said, _nih no u-makkê no_, “dejectus ego et humilis ego,” I am _meek_ and lowly in heart: since then, we say, the word has been ennobled and highly dignified, ‘O _δυνάτος χαρέων, χαρέων!_’

“’Tis better to be lowly born

The English _meek_ looks akin to the Syriac _mico_, another form of the word _makkê_ or _mâkoko_, lenitas, mansuetudo, _πραότης_, mildness, _meekness_. Cf. etiam. Jacob. i. 9. The Greek _ταπεινός_—probably a contraction of _διαταπεινός_, levelled to the ground, or slightly rising above it—reminds us, as a matter of course: _Li poveri tagini d’ Italia!_

This last, I suspect, is the true meaning of שֶׁתֶּסֶתְו, from שָׁתָה, fundamenta jecit. — It is rather curious to notice that its plural, שֶׁתֶּסֶתְו (Matt. vii. 25) with a masculine termination, has a feminine construction; and that this is by no means a simple, but a composed word from the Hebrew פָּדָה (sheth), a foundation, properly understood, and the Syriac לֶאְשָׁה (esto), which means the support of a building or a wall (paries). Thus in Ephr. tom. i. p. 62, we read לֶאְשָׁה | שֶׁתֶּסֶת (esath messahte), paries integoemimus.

And when He (the Lord) entrusted to Simon the keys of the kingdom of heaven, He meant to bestow upon him the highest sovereignty in the Church. With a loving appellation, which the Father had revealed to him, Simon called his Lord, "Christ, the Son of God;" and forthwith he received, as a crown from a royal hand, the great blessing of an unerring faith. As a reward for his confession, He (Christ) granted to that disciple that every man should confess as he himself had confessed, and should receive blessings. . . . The blessing He bestowed upon him was like an earnest of faith, that that confession should be firmly kept up all over the world.

Orthodox men of letters know well that all the economy of the old is but a parable and a pattern of the new law: for the idea and the mere figure is there, whilst here is the reality and the perfection. All that is written in the glossa, i.e. in the Holy Scripture, and the Prophets, is fulfilled in Christ. . . . Yet as we are now going to speak of faith, let us keep to it.
Faith indeed in the Old (Testament) did shine in Abraham when, having believed in God, he was quickened, and given as a father to the Gentiles. The same faith, however, was celebrated and brought to perfection in the New (Testament) through Peter, who was laid down as a foundation-stone of the Church of God, so that no building, unless based upon it can ever be raised or brought up to the coping, which is Christ. Whatever then is there said of Abraham is to be taken figuratively, partially, and only for the time being; while all that concerns Peter is to be considered spiritually, thoroughly, for ever and ever. . . . As in the old law, Abraham was the father of fathers, so was Peter in the new. One single letter (H) was added to Abram, the letter of faith 72, —henceforward thy name shall not be Abram, but Abraham, for I have made thee a father of many nations,—but Peter’s old man was stripped off completely, so that he was thoroughly renewed in Christ. Thou art Simon Barjona, and thou wilt be called Kipho (rock), and upon this rock I will build My Church. It was said to Abraham, “I will bless them that bless thee, and curse them that curse thee” (Gen. xii. 3). But to Peter it was declared: To thee I will give the keys of the kingdom of heaven; whatever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven. Lands of people, and realms of nations were promised to Abraham;

72 The Chaldaean Theologian is here alluding to the Syriac word ܐܚܝܡܢܐ haimonatho, which stands for faith, and begins with the letter ܟ (k). This reminds us of the beautiful expression of Dante:—

but the promise to Peter ranges over cities of souls, and rests upon heavenly thrones. . . . During the natural law, the family of Abraham was naturally propagated in the flesh from one to another, till it ended in the manifestation of the Incarnate God. But in the spiritual law, Peter continues to live from Pope to Pope, till comes the second advent of the Son of Man, who is the Son of God. And as those who were not naturally born from fathers descending from the seed of Abraham, were debarred from the filiation of Abraham, and strangers to the voice of the Prophet,—"The Lord is our lot," (for such is the filiation of Abraham, and not that of the Gentiles without, seeing that the promises of God were made to him and to all his seed for ever)—in like manner those who are not spiritually generated by Peter's fathers, are equally, by each Pope for the time being, debarred from the filiation of Peter; so that they cannot by any means, call God "our Father who art in heaven," as God allowed those who belonged to the family of Peter, not those who are strangers to his faith, to call Him thus. And each one who is not brought to be ruled under the crosier of such shepherds of Peter (the Roman Pontiffs), he does not belong to the flock of Christ. For to Peter, and to no one else, the Lord said, "Feed My lambs, feed My sheep."

This Latin (the only remaining) fragment contains the answer given by the Abbot Ada to the Chaldean Patriarch Elias, who had requested him to search into the old Chaldean codices, in order to settle the difference which then arose between the Chaldean faith and the doctrine of the Roman Catholic Church.

THE (Holy) Spirit came down from heaven into the upper room ¹ scattering cleft tongues of fire on the Apostles. He sent Simon to Rome ².

Syriac Liturgy, in Officio Pentecost., Hora 1.

¹ קָדַתָּה הָלִיתו, like the Hebrew הָלִיתו means an Oriental upper-room. Contignatio superior, or tabulatum; Conaeculum, ἀνάραυος or ἱπεργον.—A large, furnished, upper-room of this kind, where the Apostles were to make ready for the Passover, is particularly mentioned Luke xxii. 12; and Mark xiv. 15. One of the same kind was probably that "upper chamber" at Joppa which Peter was brought into by the poor widows, who stood by him weeping, and showing the coats and garments which Dorcas made while she was with them; and where the same Apostle uttered the thaumaturgic ¹ קָדַתָּה הָלִיתו cumi, Acts xx. from which passage it appears that such rooms upstairs, like the upper stories at Rome, for which A. Rich said that our words attics and garrets would furnish the most appropriate translation, were chiefly occupied by the poorer classes; by those poor in spirit, whom our Lord heartily blessed, saying, that "theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

² לִשְׁמַעְתְּנ שָדָרֵתָה קְרוּמִי, Ishmaın shadaraleh irumi, might as well be rendered by "to Simon he entrusted the Roman mission." Dr. Cureton, in his Ancient Syriac Documents, p. 112,
The Apostles were sent out to preach the gospel to all nations. To each of them the Son of God had appointed and given in trust a place. To Simon He committed Rome, etc.

Glory be to the Lord, full of majesty, who despatched to the most powerful city of Rome, a "par" of illustrious Disciples, Peter and Paul.

has the following: "To Simon, Rome, and to John, fell Ephesus, to Thomas, India, and to Addæus, the country of the Assyrians. And when they were sent each to the country which fell to him, they set their faces to convert the country."

3 "athro aghel, "regionem commendavit." The same word athro occurs Matt. ii. 22, where the Vulgate has "cessit in partes (μέρη) Galilææ," and Luke x. 1, where it is said that our blessed Lord sent His newly-elected disciples "ante faciem suam in omnem civitatem locum (τόπον); quo erat Ipse venturus."—How the very same word came to be used for a banquet, convivium, in Judith vi. 21, is easily explained by the mis-reading of the Greek πότον for τόπον. Thus καὶ παρέλαβαν αὐτὸν (Ἀχιὼρ) Ὁρια νε τὴς Εκκλησίας εἰς οἶκον αὐτοῦ, καὶ ἐποίησε πότον (τὸπον ? i;i;i:i) τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις. See Castelli, h. v., where he shows likewise how athro enters into composition of geographical words like the English land in England, the land of angels! and Heliolând, the land of saints, etc., etc.

4 "Zaugo, ἑῷγος, jugum, a yoke, are words most likely derived from the same root n copulavit, both Hebrew and Syriac. Zaugo is used not only for a yoke of oxen, Luke xiv. 19, but also for a pair of turtle doves, Luke ii. 24. Yea, like the Greek ἑῳγος, Herodot. iii. 74, it has a special classical application to the πέτεινα, βασιλιάς, the birds of heaven, who spread their wings above, and "the heavenly Father feedeth them."

5 "Nassihā, illustres, clarissimi. It is specially used as a title of dignity Luke i. 3, where the Greek has ἱπατιστε (nassizo) Θεόφιλε.

CXIV.

Again we confess that the holy Roman Church is the mother and the head of all Churches, and that the bodies of the blessed Peter and Paul lie buried there (in the city of Rome).

Ignace (Patriarch of the Jacobites), Epist. ad Innocent IV. Raynald, contin. Baronii, H. E., tom. ii. paragraph xxxvi.

CXV.

We are truly consentient with the blessed Peter, in confessing that he is the foundation of the Church; just as Christ has named him a Rock, saying: Upon this Rock I shall build My Church. Therefore the Church wherein his body is laid is the mother of the churches that are all over the world. We then say and proclaim that she is the bright lamp from which all other lamps are lit up.

Raynald, tom. ii. paragraph xxxix. p. 381.

Considering all this, and other things of the like kind, I dread to address your Holiness, especially as I put before the eyes of my mind not only your power, but also the wisdom of the Latins; who, having been constantly trained, up to this time, in theological and disciplinary studies, such as they had imbibed from Jesus Christ at the beginning of the Christian era now keep in their minds the very same things, which the most blessed Apostles Peter and Paul first taught them. But as to the Churches (of the East) once devoid of such a wisdom and discipline, who did not cling to the primitive foundation, but were separated from their mother and teacher, the Roman Church, God allowed them (to fall off) as a disgrace to the Gentiles, and a prey to the infidels; as is clearly to be seen among Greeks and Armenians, and even among ourselves, Æthiopian Jacobites, since we have been severed from you—the year 900.

CXVII.

As there is but one God the Father, and one Son the Lord Christ, God above all, and one Holy Ghost Almighty; so there is but one faith concerning the Godhead, and one holy Church of Rome, the mother of all Churches; and one solid rock, over which the wise Architect, the builder of the world, has ranged the ecclesiastical orders of all Churches.

And I will not oppose, as the rest of the heretics do, the precept of the holy Apostles and orthodox fathers, who maintained that the See of mighty Rome held the principality, and that it is the highest of all sees. KINGS from the East, Emperors from the West, dreaded Governors from the South, and powerful Rulers from the North will come and meet together within the great Rome. Thinking of your august majesty, and of my own lowliness, I feel such a secret fear, O most blessed Father, that you will first pardon me if, perhaps, I make mistakes in any of the few things I am going to say. For nothing but fear and trembling can fall on a man like me, who, being dust and ashes, dares to speak in the presence of you, as God on earth. For such you are, a God on earth, a Christ, and His Vicar, the successor of Peter, the father, the head, the teacher of the universal Church, to whom were given the keys to shut and open paradise to whomsoever you please. You are the Prince of Kings, the greatest of teachers, etc.

Abbot Andrew (Legatus Jacobitarum Ægyptum incolentium Patriarchæ), in Oratione coram Eugenio IV. (an. 1441).

THEIR DIVINE PRIMACY.

CXLI.

Such is likewise the power of the Patriarch of Rome over all Patriarchs, as (that of) the blessed Peter is over the whole community. For he who resides in Rome, in the place of Peter has the guardianship of the universal Church. And if any one should refuse to obey these oecumenical synods, let him be anathema.

CXLI.

To the most holy and most blessed Father, Paul V.
The least of your children, the humble Elias, by the grace of God, Patriarch of Babylon, who ministers to the See of St. Thaddæus, and to whom are entrusted all the flocks of the Eastern Chaldees, falls down on his knees without intermission, and prostrates himself at the feet of your Holiness, and most heartily offers presents of stainless kisses to your holy hands, which verily and exactly bear the keys of height and depth: and then like a little child (before his Father), he comes before you his most pious Father, to praise you, to sanctify his lips by the invocation of your holy name, and to answer the words of your paternity. . . .

* It is during the great "forty days" that our Lord founded the primacy, when He made St. John and the rest of the Apostles, sheep of Peter's fold. The period of thirty-eight years which follows, is the carrying into effect His design. . . . The Church grows around Peter, etc. W. Allies, Format. of Christ, II. p. 346.

For not in vain did (Christ) give the keys of height and depth to Peter, the foundation of His Church; nor did He entrust him, as it were by chance, with those flocks, endowed with reason, which He bought with His own precious blood. Thus it is that by a long succession after Peter, the supreme Pontificate came down to the hands of our Father the holy Pope (Paul V), the lofty head of all Christendom, who did not commend himself to become Pontiff, but He did who said to him: Feed My lambs, feed My sheep. Therefore we place the foundations of our faith on this immovable rock, saying. . . .

Elias (Chaldæan Petr.), Epist synodica ad Paulum V. (an. 1610.)

CXLIII.

. . . I look up also with all affection and veneration to every thing taught by the holy Apostolic See and the Roman Catholic Church. I hold and accept all the doctrines of the Roman Church, and believe that the holy Roman See is Apostolic, and that the Pope in Rome holds the place of the holy Peter, Prince of the Apostles, and that he himself truly represents the person of Christ; that he himself is His "vicegerent,” and chief over all Churches; that he is the Father of all the Doctors of Christendom, and that through St. Peter, (Christ) has delivered to him the plenitude of power to feed His sheep. I likewise believe in one only congregation of His Church, and further I confess that no one can be saved; nor partake of eternal life, outside the aforesaid holy Catholic Church.

The same, in Professione Fidei.
Synodalia Chald., ibid.

CXLIV.

We say then that here our Lord shows clearly how the Primacy belongs to Peter and Peter's successors only, not to all the Apostles together. For Christ did not say collectively, "you are the rock," but individually (said it to Peter); nor did He collectively say "My Churches," but singularly, "My Church." And also He did not say to all of them, "I will give you the keys," but absolutely to a single one, to the blessed Peter, to the Prince of the Apostles, He said, "to thee I will give," etc.

Josephus II. (Chaldaean Patriarch), in Speculo terae.
Cod. Vatic. (Syriae), 181, p. 18.

CXLV.

Therefore we say: If the primacy does not belong to him (Peter) and to his successors exclusively, for what reason did He make this command (feed thou My lambs . . . ), to him alone, to the exclusion of the other Apostles? He ought rather to have said to all the Disciples, "Feed ye My lambs, My young and My grown up sheep." Yet such is the general tradition of the Holy Fathers.

The same, ibid.
Cod. cod.

CXLVI.

Whoever shall be his (Peter's) successor, will be the Pope of the great Rome. The reason why he was called Pope is that he is the Father of all Christians, by virtue of a spiritual paternity; whose sacred office is to train them and bring them up till they have reached the kingdom of heaven.—Every one who succeeds him after his death, is the Pope of the great Rome, and we declare that he is the Head of the holy Church, in the same manner as Peter: for whosoever legitimately succeeds, inherits the authority of his predecessor. This being so, it necessarily follows that the primacy of the whole Church should belong to the Pope of Rome, as it belonged to Peter when he was on earth.

The same, ibid.
Cod. eod. p. 19.

CXLVII.

In that fifth chapter (of the General Canons), after many had spoken of the becoming honour to be paid to the Patriarch, it was decided that, as the Patriarch has the power of doing every thing he pleases with those who are under his jurisdiction, so the Pope of Rome should have authority over all the Patriarchs, in the same manner as the blessed Peter had over all the (Christian) republic; for he holds the place of Peter in the universal Church that is in Rome. And even our ordination was successively received from the great Rome. If then any one should transgress (any decree of) these œcumenical Synods, let him be anathema.

The same, ibid.
Cod. eod.

CXLVIII.

These, my brethren and my co-religionists, are the testimonies we have gathered from the books of your synod. How is it that you call them precepts, admonitions, and decisions, and yet you transgress them? Lo, these same decisions and admonitions will be cited against you at the day of judgment! All of them, mind you well, attribute to the Pope the primacy and the command. What is the use of your saying that the Pope is our Father, and the head of our Patriarchs, whilst you transgress his order, following your corrupted conscience; binding what is to be loosed and loosing what is to be bound; accepting what is to be rejected and rejecting what is to be accepted? How do you expect, by this course, to comply with his commands? Verily to comply with them is to profess the whole of what he professes, and to reject the whole of what he rejects. Go now, and think the matter over again for yourselves.

The same, ibid.

Be it known to your charity, that your Epistle has reached us, and that I received with my people, your firm faith, and the blessings you have sent to my humility. Let the Patriarch diligently search into every thing which the Metropolitans or the Bishops, who are under his authority, are doing in the place of their jurisdiction; and, finding any inconvenient thing, let him alter it, and order in its stead what he thinks better. For he is the Father of them all, and they are his children. It is but right that the Bishops should respect the superiority of the Metropolitan as that of an elder brother, and have recourse to the loftiness of his dignity, and his good administration; the Patriarch being in the place of a father who has sway over his household.

Although some of these documents may seem to prove nothing directly concerning the Roman Pontiffs, nay, to weaken rather than to strengthen their authority, it is yet to be observed,

1. That, after the Eastern nations have been cut off from the centre of unity, severed from the communion with the Roman Church, and thus deprived of a supreme Chief who was to rule over them, the idea of Primacy over the whole Church was still lingering in their minds.

2. They erred, no doubt, as to the subject, but not as to the object, making over to their Patriarchs that authority which, by Divine right, was conferred to the Roman Pontiffs; since they were convinced that no religion could ever be acephalous. Moreover they generally admitted that whatever a Patriarch can do in his jurisdictional circle, the Roman Patriarch was entitled to do over all the Patriarchs of the world.

CLXII.

Seeing that the East (that portion which was under the Persian dominion) had been left without a Patriarch (after the Nestorian schism), and that it was not convenient for Religion to be without a supreme Head, (our) fathers thought it advisable to raise to the Patriarchal dignity their own Primate; still maintaining his old Primatial title; for, seeing that he had received it from that holy Synod of the West (the Nicene Council), which had the unanimous consent of the Orthodox people, (our fathers) did but add to it the Patriarchate, thinking it was not convenient for our Religion to remain without a Patriarch. And the reason why they did not raise to the Patriarchal dignity any one else, save the Primate, was that they should not seem to establish audaciously for themselves a Head of their own private authority.

George of Arbela (Sec. x.), de Officiorvm Distinctione, Tract. 2, c. 6. Cod. de Prop. (Syriac), xxxi. p. 99.

They appointed for themselves a supreme Head, instead of Peter, and this was proclaimed in the Nestorian Synod (430), under the Patriarch Dadishoo, in which the Nestorian Bishops, there assembled, said what follows in the next Document.

CLXIII.

Let us give ourselves up to any kind of death in favour of our Father and Prelate, who is our ruler and governor, the steward or dispenser of all the riches of the divine treasure, the Catholicus 4 (Primate) Lord Dadishoo, who is a second Peter to us, the Head of our ecclesiastical republic.

CLXIV.

As there is a reason for (maintaining) the authority of each Patriarch over his Metropolitans and other (subjects), so there is the same reason for the authority of the Roman Patriarch over all other Patriarchs.

The legates of Leo (Roman Pontiff) stood up in the midst of them, saying: “We carry with us an order of the blessed Apostolic man, the Roman Pope, who is the Head of all Churches, that Dioscorus is not to sit in the Synod.”

Cod. Vatic. (Syriac), 166, p. 263, a tergo.

The same Barhebræus afterwards relates that, according to the wishes of the Legates, Dioscorus was not admitted to the Synod.

CLXVII.

Be it known to the Holiness of him, who, after the heavenly Father, God, is the common Father, that your sacred Epistle was delivered to us through the hands of the godly brother Andrew, a wise man, a man gifted with every virtue. . . . And I raised it (the letter) above our heads, and received a blessing from it, as from a likeness of the image of Jesus Christ.

As to what you ordered about peace and common charity, who is he that does not rejoice in concord, union, and harmony? Whilst, then, we obey with perfect peace, we would show first of all the truth of the faith which we profess. And God is witness, that what we believe in our heart, we confess with our lips, and write it down with our hands.—(Here follows the profession of faith.)

Father undefiled . . . who sitteth on the chair of truth . . . by the will and grace of God, chosen to fill the See of Peter!— . . . And besides, I kiss the earth under thy feet, and give obedience to the chamber honoured by its Lord . . . who is the Father of fathers, the most blessed Pastor, the Head of princes, the Shepherd of sheep . . . the Viceregent of the Word of God, robed with a spiritual vestment, crowned with the mitre of the grace of Deity adorned with the ornaments and the marks of honour (insignia) of Moses. Garland of regenerated children, and glory of the people of Jesus . . . Thou art the fifth Evangelist among the four.

And I, the least of the Chief Priests, the unworthy Ignatius, respectfully bow twice and three times before my beloved Father, who is Father of fathers . . . the successor of our father Peter, the Head of the Patriarchs in Rome, and of the Patriarchs of the world that follow Christ.

Ignatius XVII. (Patr. of Antioch.), Epist. ad Julianum III. Stephani Balutii Miscell., tom. iii. p. 199.

Dated from the convent of Zafaran, near Mardin. Taken from a Cod. MS. of the Library of the Fathers of the Congregation of the Mother of God.—Printed in Luca, 1762.
We entreat your Holiness not to forget us in your prayers to God at any time; that He may help us and confirm us in the right faith, and may give us strength to fulfil what you have ordained out of the divine precepts. . . . My lowliness (the humble) will not neglect nor transgress your divine precepts.

Gabriel (Coptic Patr. of Alexandria), Epist. ad Clement. VIII. Cod. Vatic. (Arabic), 126, p. 2.

That which we desire, from your diligence and judiciousness, is that when you come before the Lord Pope Clement (VIII.), you kiss his feet for us, that you obey his precepts, with which you are dutifully to comply; that you worship between his hands, waiting obediently at his service . . . You should, moreover, listen to his behests as if they were issuing from the mouth of our Lord Christ. . . .—You should obey him and never gainsay his commands; for he who contradicts him contradicts our Lord Christ who by His grace has elected him.—Whatever the Lord our Father shall tell you, you will report to us, and we, with our community, will fulfil all that belongs to true religion and to the right faith towards the Catholic Apostolic Roman Church. . . . Whatever the Lord our Father shall command we will execute, and that which the Gospel, through his lips, shall bid us to reject, we will reject, if it be found with us.

The same, in Instructiones ad Legatos suos. Cod. Vatic. (Arabic), 126, p. 6 et 7.
And should there be any thing which may displease you in that which we have sent to you, we shall alter it in such a manner as it may please you.—(See the subscription in the original Document.)

Elias (Chaldean Patriarch), Epistola Synodica ad Paulum V. Synodalia Chaldeorum, Rome.

FROM THE PATRIARCHAL CHAMBER,

Prayerful wishes and blessings upon you.

From the humble Oriental Elias, who serves, by the grace of God, the holy See of Babylon, continual adorations, perpetual bowings and sempiternal kneelings before thy holy feet, O blessed Father, Head of the fathers, Sun of the Christian world, Name which is set in the edifice of the Church of Churches. Pope, my (spiritual) Lord and Father, Lord and Father of all Patriarchs throughout the world.

The same, Epistola altera ad Paulum V. Synod. Chald., ut supra.

As a Sun in the firmament of the Church,—a splendor of the whole congregation,—a Head of all Fathers,—Peter has rooted thee Chief.

What’s in this Name? we can hardly guess.—Evidently the Pope’s name Paulus, points to a strong Roman connexion. See Conybeare, vol. i. p. 57, and Tennyson’s “household name.”—Compare note 24, p. 25.

The root of religion,—the greatest Pastor of Pastors,—the Chief of all professions,—Peter has ephoded thee.\(^6\) 3.

Path to the priesthood,—Constituter of Churches,—light of Christendom,—the (Holy) Ghost has appointed thee High-treasurer.

4.
Rest of Christian wayfarers,—thou art in truth—the Establisher of faith.—Needy as I am, I'll ever serve thee.

5.
Thrall of thy loftiness,—bondman of thy lordship,—(I entreat thee), be graciously merciful to me,—and shut my imbecility within thy sheepfold.

Of thy pure high glory,—thy humble servant, the Chaldean outcast,—Gabriel, is notworthy.—Arouse this wretch from the dead.

stream of doctrine—which waters thy flock—and all that is withering in thy plantation.

Gabriel (the senior Archbishop), Carmen in honorem Pauli V. Synodalia Chaldæorum.

CLXXIV.

Thus precisely to his See, the highest of all, belongs the principality, and the honour of the supremacy.

The Lord of the creation made him Head and Master of the Disciples, when He elected (him) and gave him the keys of His eternal kingdom.

These two letters P.P. mean in Greek that he is "Pater Patrum;" that no man has authority over him; for he it is who feeds and guides the whole flock. To him the pontifical power over the whole world has been given, as it has been defined in a canon of the Constantinopolitan Council. He, who possesses the See of the holy and pure Simon Kipho, is the great Pastor of Pastors throughout the world.

In this same manner we say that the Head of the Church, and the Head of Faith, is but one. Yet, being man, he requires Patriarchs, Metropolitans, and Bishops to govern the Church of Christ in every part of the world. And these, in their turn want Priests and Ministers; so that all must obey and listen to all that the Universal Father may command; and thus each one must keep his station and title. —If any one of them shall dare to transgress the precept of the universal Father he should be stripped of his title, and forfeit his dignity. He should no more be called Patriarch nor Metropolitan, nor by any like title, but plainly heretic and oppugner; such being the cause of his degradation. This is that unity of which we have spoken, treating of the middle (secondary ministers, such as Deacons, etc). One, then, we say, is the Head and Ruler of the Church, and not many.

THEY ARE ABOVE COUNCILS.

CLXXVI.

As we had detected him (Nestorius) from his own letters, as well as from his writings, which have just been read in our presence, and lastly, from what he has now said in this Metropolis, for which he was convicted of fostering and broaching impious opinions; unavoidably compelled by the canons, and by the letters of our most holy Father, and Co-minister, Celestine, Bishop of the Roman Church, with ever-flowing tears, we came to this sad decision. . . .

CLXXVII.

It is then for your Holiness to decide about what has been done: for if they were allowed to traduce Sees that are more exalted than their own, and to attack those over whom they have no authority, they would injuriously act in opposition to what has been prescribed by sacred canons and laws, etc., etc.

(The Dogmatic Constitution of the R. P., St. Leo, having been brought forward in the Council of Chalcedon, and the Emperor Marcianus having said :) Here is the Document and the faith of Leo, who is greater than any of you, (Dioscorus answered :)—

Satan, too, was the greatest among the angels. But as soon as he rebelled against God, he fell and became a devil. So it is with Leo, if he professes the true faith and shows himself obedient to that, he is doubtless the greatest, the most eminent, the most excellent.

Council of Chalcedon, apud Severum Macaffa.
Cod. Vatic. (Garsiunice), 159, p. 129.

CLXXIX.

Bishops cannot summon any Synod against their Head and leader, since they have no power over him. They must know that they have no right to stretch their hands over that which was not given to them either by God or by men . . . Therefore we solemnly decide and enact this law which is never to be without its vigour, and never to be abrogated; and so we seal it with (the seal of) the Holy Trinity; that, in the name of the Trinity, no one be permitted to call any synodical meeting against the Primate (of Seleucia), or to moot any question, or to bring in any bill of complaint against him . . . But let him have full authority to judge all those that are his inferiors, and let his own judgment be reserved to Christ, who has chosen him, raised him, and made him Head of His Church. For thus has pleased
His Divine Majesty, that by the principality of His Church, His universal dominion be honoured and respected.

Nestorian Synod, sub Dadishoo Patr. (430).

CLXXX.

It is for him (the Patriarch), after all, to judge those who are under him, whilst the judgment of himself is to be left to Christ. This has been confirmed even by Dadishoo, where he has declared that no Synod can be assembled against the Primate, (without his authority), nor can any complaint be made against him.

CHAPTER VI.

THEIR RIGHT OF RECEIVING APPEALS.

CLXXXI.

THE Bishop Osius said: . . . Let us honour the memory of Peter the Apostle, so that those who have pronounced judgment upon this affair, may write a letter to the Roman Bishop, Julius, in order that through the Bishops who are nearer to the province, the judgment may be reversed, and that, if it is necessary, he may appoint other judges.

CLXXXII.

(Pope Celestine) gave sentence against Nestorius, and abrogated the decisions which he (Nestorius) had given.

CLXXXIII.

And lest, even for a moment, one might be brought to think that the sentence given by him (Nestorius), who had manifestly provoked the Divine sentence against himself, was lawful; we, by the authority of our See, decided that none of the bishops, or clergy, or any person of whatever Christian condition, who may have been removed from his place, or from the community, by Nestorius, or by any of those who much resemble him, since they began preaching such things, be held removed, or separated from (our) communion.

The same, in Epist. supra cit.
Cod. de Prop. (Syriac), Sharfian II.

CLXXXIV.

The Bishops Paschasimus and Lucentius, and the Priests Basil and Senator (Legates of the R. P.) said: "St. Leo, to whose care is committed the Church, and the whole truth of faith, which stretches its hand over every thing, having been informed that great troubles were stirred up in the East concerning the mystery of the Incarnation of our Lord, sent of late to Flavian, who beforetime was Bishop of this Church (of Constantinople), letters . . . . .

Nestorian Council, sub Dadishoo.
Cod. de Prop. (Syriac), xxvii. p. 279.

CLXXXVI.

Then some of those who had been censured (by the Patriarch Dioscorus), resorted to him (Pope Leo), and brought their complaints over to him, saying they had been treated unjustly; denouncing their Father and Lord, Dioscorus, Patriarch of Alexandria, for his having assembled a council without giving the place due to Leo; complaining of his statutes; and of his having done many things without first consulting him, such as to have excommunicated the very Patriarch of Constantinople, and the bishops who were with him, though they were innocent. In all, (they said to Leo,) Dioscorus did as he pleased, without even asking your advice.

Saint Basil, in his Epistle (lii.)8 to Athanasius, says: "We have thought well to write to the Pope of Rome, that he might see about our business, and judge us as it becomes him to do.

CLXXXVIII.

In that letter he (the Pope) said: If any cause or question whatever be raised about him (the Patriarch), the judgment is to be reserved to the Pope. It is for him as a Pope (a father), and not for any of his disciples (the Bishops subject to the Patriarch), to see into the matter.

8 The original, as given by Migne (Epist. lxix.), is this:—'Εφάνη δὲ ἡμῖν ἀκόλουθον ἐπιστεῖλα τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ 'Ῥώμης, ἐπισκέψασθαι τὰ ἑπτάδα, καὶ δοῦναι γνώμην ... αὐτὸν ἀπεκτίθεναι περὶ τὸ πράγμα, κ.τ.λ. It came to our mind to send a message to the Bishop of Rome, that he may see into this business, and to advise him . . . to judge it for himself, etc. etc.

OF EXCOMMUNICATION.

CLXXXIX.

If thou dost not reject, by a written declaration, in accordance with our (holy) religion, this novelty which is beyond the faith, and dost not disclaim it within ten days from that in which this mandate shall reach thee, and be made known to thee; if thou dost not thus condemn this detestable heresy, thou shalt be separated from all communion with the Catholic Church.

CXV.

He (Pope Leo) warns us, with his exquisite charity, to act in this way, viz., if he (the Bishop Anatolius) should put his written signature to this letter and to the annexed testimonies, so as to accept the faith therein declared, which excludes all doubt, we are to grant to him the grace which belongs to this Apostolic See, as he knows that the communion of Leo cannot be bestowed on him but by our communion. Besides our Father Leo himself gave us his own admonitions, viz., that those holy brother-bishops who had no share in the deposition of the blessed Flavian, will partake of our divine communion, if they agree with this Epistle which we have brought with us, and with the testimonies of the fathers which are annexed to it.

CXCI.

Having heard this (that the Emperor had raised Severus to the See of Antioch), the Roman Patriarch, Symmachus, excommunicated Severus, and all who were siding with him.

CXCII.

Martin, the Bishop of Rome, who was from Chalcedon, assembled a synod of one hundred and nine bishops, in which he excommunicated the Emperor Heraclius; Sergius, Pyrrhus, and Paul, and all those who would not confess that there are in Christ two wills, two operations, and two forms.9

9 דמואמ, מורה, פורמה, רֶפֶס. In its first and most common meaning this Syriac word is used by the Evangelist St. Mark (xvi. 12), where he says that Christ appeared (unto two of His disciples as they walked and went into the country) in another form.—St. Luke (iii, 22) uses the same word, speaking of the Holy Ghost, who descended upon Christ in a bodily shape, or appearance, badmuth gushmo, σωματική λεεν, in forma di corpq. —Here, however, the very same word has a stronger meaning; viz., that of a natural and substantial Form, such as it is meant Phil. ii. 6 for our blessed Lord, "who, being in the Form of God,

In a like manner from the Head of the Churches, the sacerdotal dignities are to issue prudently; and the dispositions which regard the whole of the (ecclesiastical) community, are to be paternally transmitted by him in the same manner.

The newly elected or (consecrated) bishop must ("en morphi Theou stafrxov"); took upon Himself the Form of a servant, morphi daolou. S. Cyril of Alexandria put the thing clear, this way:

Τ’ετερον γὰρ Θεότης, καὶ ἔτερον άνθρωπότης: ἔτερον τὸ ἐν, καὶ ἔτερον τὸ γεννημένον ἄλλο ἡ τοῦ Θεοῦ ΜΟΡΦΗ, καὶ ἄλλο ἡ τοῦ άνθρώπου ΜΟΡΦΗ.—De Incarn. Domini xxxi., Edit. Migne. The essential divine Form is likewise expressed in the Vulgata by the word Species, Greek, εἶδος, Syriac, hzoio, properly visum. Thus John v. 37, "Neque vocem Ejus unquam audistis, neque SPECIEM Ejus vidistis," in the original is, uło hзоn hаsітun, meaning, "nor did you see His SIGHT," i.e. what is to be seen (spiritually) of Him.

Λάμονιο Mhaunoitkh, a very expressive Syriac adverb, derived from houm, mens, ratio, intellectus; used 1 Thess. v. 5, where the Greek has ἴοι φωτός καὶ ἴοι ἡμέρας. Speaking of the Scribe who asked about the first commandment, Jesus said, Mark xii. 34, he had answered mhaunoith, εἰς νουεξος ἀπεξηθή; that is, wisely, discreetly, sensibly; like one imbued with that sort of teaching, which is known in Scripture as Παθέλα καὶ νουθεσία κυρίου, Eph. vi. 4; Παθέλα ἄν δικαιοσύνη, 2 Tim. iii. 16, etc.
afterwards present himself to the great metropolitan Primate of Seleucia and Ctesiphon, and receive from him the final confirmation.

CXCV.

Those who are called to the Episcopal dignity by their Metropolitan, or their Patriarch, or by any written permission of either of them, may be ordained. But whoever may be the persons who wish to be ordained, they must exhibit the writs of the Metropolitan or Patriarch, in order that their ordination may be lawful. . . . Yet as soon as he (the new Bishop) has been consecrated, let him go and pay his visit to the venerable Patriarch, and receive from him full jurisdiction, according to the (sacred) Canons.

And let those, who should have been ordained in opposition to this Canon, be suspended from their dignities, and those who have consecrated them, be liable to the judgment of the Synod.

CXCVI.

The Canon which prescribes the complete (confirmation) to be given by the Patriarch to the bishops, is a most strict one. Hence it is not allowed to him who is ordained by the Metropolitan, audaciously to perform any pontifical function, before he has presented himself to the Patriarch and received from him the full authority.

CXCIX.

Even (the Metropolitan of) our See of Babylon was not elected by itself; as (those) of other heretics, who have lawlessly multiplied Patriarchs in the world without (the permission of) the See of the great Church of Rome: but it was by the command of the Pope, and by an order of the Roman Church, that the See of Babylon was filled up. Thus much is to be found written in our Annals, and thus it is that we have received (our) power, up to this day. Nothing was done by ourselves, as by all those who trampled under their feet the Canons of the Apostles, and the laws of the Fathers, crowding the earth with Patriarchs without necessity.

In that fifth chapter (of the Chaldaean Synod), the Epistle of the Western Popes was approved of. After many other things, (the Popes) there say:

"When a Patriarch dies, the Metropolitans and Bishops are to meet together, as the time shall allow them, and assisted by them, we shall order the consecration of the Patriarch."

See then how strictly they command that without an order of the Pope, no Patriarch is ever to be ordained (consecrated).

We say (then) that as Moses was the sole Head and Ruler of the Old Israel, so it is meet that but one should be the Head and Ruler of the New Israel. . . . And as Moses chose out of the people incorruptible men, who feared God, and appointed them rulers of thousands, of hundreds, and of tens, that they might judge the people at all seasons in small concerns, whilst they might go to him for greater matters; in like manner the second Moses, who is the Head of the Church, is to select spotless men out of the Christian people, and to appoint them Patriarchs, Metropolitans, Bishops, and Priests, as judges of small causes, reserving the great ones for the second Moses, who is the Chief of the Holy Church. From which it is accordingly proved that, albeit many may be the judges of the Christian fold, only one is to be the Head of all, as it was under Moses.

CHAPTER X.

OF PROVING THE FAITH.

CCVIII.

THE gracious Epistle which issued from your holy mouth, and was written by your high command, came to our hand; and we received it with our feeble hands, and put it reverently on our eyes. Like the old Simon (Simeon? the Syriac has the same spelling for both these names), who carried in his arms our Blessed Lord, Jesus Christ, we said: Our eyes have witnessed your immense piety. Now my Lord, please to forgive your servant his sins, as the power of binding and loosing, and of all mysteries, is put into your hands. Since we have read your letter with gladness, and understood with joy what is written in it, we are waiting for your orders. We have no sufficient voice to praise you, neither a sufficient tongue to express your glory. We are trembling before your greatness; for the Lord has exalted you.

Raban Ara (1247), Epist. ad Innocent. IV. Raynal, tom. ii. paragraph 32, p. 379.

The same Raban Ara (Catholicus, i.e. Primate, of the Jacobites) adds, that he has sent, through the Nuncios, his profession of faith, which is subscribed by two Archbishops and three Bishops.
We did not then receive such as maintain a duality, which breaks the unity, nor again those who confess a mixture and a confusion, as the excommunicated Eutyches does, but we have gladly received all those who follow the faith of the blessed Peter, the Prince of the Apostles, and walk in the path of the Nicene Council.

Ignatius (Jacobit. Patriarch), Epist. ad Innocent. IV. Raynald, ibid. § 36.

May all nations of Romans be gathered around thee, my Father, Pope Julius (III.), heir of the glorious See of Peter. . . . What, after all, I beg from the holiness of my dearest Father, is a firm, orthodox faith. For the letters of your charity have reached my deficiency and my infirmity. I have read them and understood them well; and I have said: Tidings gladdened me to day, and as I had been roused from a dream, I came out of a sea of tribulations. . . . My Father, crown of our head, do not despise me, as I durst write this (letter), and in so many words. For thus it was meet to write to your Holiness our faith, that you might see if truth is therein or not, since you are that furnace whence whatever is covered with rust, on being cast in, issues purified. Thus it is that we poor wretches look on God and your Holiness. Do you graciously confirm our faith in truth.

Ignatius (18th Jacobite Patr., 1551), Epist. ad Julium III. Stephani Balutii, Miscell., tom. iii, p. 199.

I beseech the Father of fathers, and Pastor of pastors, Pope Julius III., who was sealed with the name of the Holy Trinity, that he vouchsafe to receive this profession of faith, in my own name, and in the name also of our Patriarch. And you moreover, chosen fathers, who are the (natural) fence of the Holy Church, you, most holy Cardinals, I entreat you graciously to receive from my lowliness this profession of faith on my part, and on that of our Patriarch, who has ordered me to make, in your presence, this our profession of faith, warranting that he would ratify this same profession of faith as it is laid down by me.

CCXII.

And if the above praised Pope (Clement VIII.) inquire about our profession, and our faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, and about the dogma of the admirable Incarnation from the pure Virgin Mary, such things, you know, are all guarded in your Roman archives, as they had been previously (declared) by (our) predecessors and holy Fathers, the Patriarchs; as it is also reported in our registers.

Gabriel (Coptic Patr. of Alexandria, 1593), Epist. ad Clem. VIII. Cod. Vatic. (Arabic), 126, p. 2.

CCXIII.

And you see, O Father, my faith, with my letters, has reached your Holiness, that you may judge if any deceit may be in our profession, or any error, or any backsliding from our mother the Roman Church.—Warn us (O Father) and we shall do (your orders); teach us and we shall obey. And may this be a sufficient warrant from our humbleness to your Holiness, that from the very remotest parts of the East we carry with us your orders upon our heads and before our eyes; and, contrary to all nations, we come (to Rome) at the risk of our lives, and at the cost of great hardships and much suffering, to kneel before your Holiness, and to receive, humble and lowly as we are, a blessing from a mother, the great Church of Paul and Peter. What is it that constraineth us to do this, but the Christian faith, and your affection towards our lowliness? And let this, which we have mentioned to your prudence, be enough; for we are glad to endure all this labour for the Roman Church.

Elias (Chald. Patriarch), Epist. ad Paulum V. Synodalia Chaldæorum, Rom. edit.

CXXIV.

I also believe, as an obedient child, and will always submit to any order, constitution, or law, of the Pontiff of the great Rome, ruling for the time being, and likewise of any other who shall succeed him in the Pontificate of Rome.

The same, in Professione Fidei (1610) Ibid, ut supra.
CHAPTER XI.

THEIR INNERANCY.

Οὐ γὰρ σεσοφισμένους μύθοις ἐξακολουθήσαντες ἐγνωρίσαμεν ὑμῖν τὴν τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ι. Χ. δόναμιν καὶ παροσιάν.

2 Pet. i. 16.

CCXV.

Nor would the (divine) grace let him thus fail; but (assist him) in order to consolidate, to confirm, and to corroborate the statutes and the canons . . . . as also (to discriminate) the true faith, and to define the offices and the right Christian way of the children of the Church, suggesting to his mind to bring forth whatever he had written, under its assistance.

The pseudo-fathers of this synod pretended that their Patriarch possessed the primacy of Peter, with all his prerogatives.

CCXVI.

Thou art also drawing the people to the fountain of Truth . . . Thou who art like a sweet spring, out of which whoever shall drink of the divine doctrine will not thirst any more, . . . firmly holding the words of the Gospel. . . . And, conscious of pure secrets, as it is said of King David, who was selected and anointed (ruler) over the people of God, as thou hast been over the Holy Church, and,
Father of us all, Crown of our head; through divine doctrine, do you help our souls.

Ignatius (17th Jacob. Patr., 1551), Epist. ad Julium III. Stephani Baluti, Miscell., tom. iii. p. 199.

CCXVII.

And now I observed that your profession is like a light put on the candlestick, which no darkness ever reaches; should even the whole world be buried in gloom, that (light) nevertheless, like the sun, would shine over all.

Moses of Mardins (legate of the said Patr.), in Prof. Fidei, Jul. III. Assemani, Bibli. Orient., t. i. ch. 48, p. 535.

CCXVIII.

Thou who becamest the Chief and the Prince of the Patriarchs, the Doctor and Preacher of the whole people of God, who waterest them with thy spiritual doctrines, and feedest them with thy life-giving words.

CCXIX.

We say that all christians profess that the Apostle Peter is the successor of Christ, and his Vicar upon earth. But no one dares say that Peter has erred and was deceived in matters of faith.—Now we have proved in the above reported (arguments), that he who sits in the See of Peter is in every thing like Peter. And as it was impossible for Peter to err, or to do any thing contrary to faith, seeing that He who confirmed him was his Lord Jesus Christ; so likewise the successor of Peter cannot err, because Christ confirms him by the intercession of Peter.

CCXX.

We say that it is known how Zardousht was a magician who prophesied upon the Nativity of Christ. And being a chief of magicians, he was abominable for his works, but not for his words, as he prophesied of Christ. Thus it has been the case with Balaam, the son of Beor; though he was a Gentile and abominable in his works, his words were holy when he prophesied of Christ, saying: "There shall come a star out of Jacob," etc. (Num. xxiv. 17). Therefore we say, if God acted in these, who were the Heads of Heathendom, so that they should prophesy the truth, and say the truth, and bear testimony to the truth, how much more would He (God) not act upon the Roman Pontiffs, who are the chief rulers of Christianity, lest they should err in matter of faith? Yea, Christ would act upon them, so as they might say the truth, and bear testimony to the truth, and advise all who listen to them about the truth.

The same, ibid.
Cod. cod.

CCXXI.

We say that we find in the Pope two manners of judgments, one proper (private), the other general. In his proper judgment he may err individually, as he may judge in his heart such a good thing to be bad, or such a bad thing to be good; and he may do what is evil and hate what is good, because he is a man like every one else, with a free-will; but in his universal judgment (ex cathedra), in matter of faith decidedly he cannot fail nor induce others into error; seeing that he is not directed by himself, but by the Holy Ghost, who shows what is good, to be good, what is bad, to be bad: so that he who is directed by Him is sure to avoid evil and to do good.

The same, ibid, p. 40. Cod. eod.

A fourth argument is brought forth, taken from the fact of Balaam, who was hired by Balak to curse him Israel, and yet he blessed the people of God. In being asked the reason why he did thus, he answered, "All that the Lord speaketh, that I must do; I cannot go beyond the commandment of the Lord," Numbers xxiv. 13.—Thus likewise, Caiaphas, though biased to speak ill of Christ, uttered a true prophecy, saying, "It was expedient that one man should die for the people," John xviii. 14; from which he concludes that in like manner, the Roman Pontiffs, even if they wished, could not speak wrongly.

If such a judge or such a priest were liable to mistake his judgments (in the Old Law), how was it, we say, that the Lord ordered the sons of Israel to go and obey him; and if any one refused to submit to his decision, He commanded him to be slain?—Now as a judge of Israel could not fail in judging the ancient Law, so the Judge of the new Israel, which is the Pope of Rome, though he may be defective in his actions, cannot err in matters of faith.

And Jesus said to Simon: "Simon, Simon, behold Satan desires to sift you as wheat. But I prayed for thee that thy faith may not fail; and thou, once converted, do strengthen thy brethren.” These words were not said to Peter alone individually, but to all who were to succeed him thereafter.—And as the faith of Peter did and could not fail, since Christ had prayed for him, thus whosoever shall sit in his Chair, (that is, every Pope of Rome,) will not suffer wreck, nor will he commit any error in matter of faith, however heretics may batter against it.

Cod. cod.

CCXXIV.

The words of that chapter (Luke xxii.), “And be thou converted, and strengthen thy brethren,” show us the impossibility of his, and the possibility of his brethren, failing. Were it otherwise, how could he (Peter) liable to error, strengthen his brethren (Apostles) against error? This would be inconsistent. But he did not fail, and hence he was qualified to confirm his brethren in the science of truth, as it is to be seen in the person of the Roman Pontiff, who daily turns his charitable eyes upon his Christian brethren; and, through his legates whom he despatches to the four quarters of the world, he strengthens and confirms them in faith.

The same, ibid.
Cod. cod.

CCXXV.

As Moses alone was (sent) by God to be a teacher to the people, whose petitions he was to offer before God, and to instruct them how to guard the laws and the judgments, and to point out to them the way in which they were to walk, and the works they were to perform; so it was quite convenient that a single one should be the Doctor (appointed) by God to instruct the Christian people, to present their petitions to God, to teach them the Christian laws and the statutes which they had to observe, to point out the way they had to tread upon, and the duties they had to perform. . . . All these things of the Old, are simply typical of those that were (to be fulfilled) in the New law.

The same, ibid. p. 9.
Cod. eod.

CCXXVI.

Whatever has been, or shall be decided in future by the supreme Roman Pontiffs in matters of faith or morals, against the rising errors, and the pernicious doctrine of Catholics as well as of Heretics and Schismatics down to our times . . . we command that it be observed by every one in all its integrity and inviolableness.

CONCLUSION.

CCXXVIII.

FROM THE PATRIARCHAL CHAMBER,—

Prayerful wishes and blessings upon you.

The faith of a trustful servant is that which conceals nothing from his master, but tells him openly every thing as it is. Therefore I, humble servant and sinner, Elias, the occupant of the See of Babylon, must open the truth to your Paternal Holiness, O
Lord Pope Paul V., the Crown of Christendom, the Chief of the Chiefs and Pastors of the Holy Church, free from all heresies.

Since by this second time you have sent us your letters, we (people of the East) have made a long inquiry, and an earnest examination about faith. Therefore I summoned Mar-Gabriel, the senior of all the Archbishops, the Priest Israel, the greatest of all grammatists, and the Abbot Mar-Adam, and said to them: As there is nobody in our nation more perspicacious than you, come, let us determine what is to be done. For, you see, our books do advise us about the Holy Church, and the Apostolic See of the Lord Pope of Rome, that he is the Father of fathers, and Chief of Pastors:—"Do follow him, and never fall back from his commands." Our Oriental forefathers themselves subjected to the anathema, those who had lapsed from the Roman Church, and those likewise who had trampled under their feet the commands of our Lord the Pope, who guards the place of St. Peter, the Foundation of the Churches, and the Head of the Apostles. Yet I see that there is something in our profession (of faith) which seems not to agree with that of the Pope, and our forefathers did not write any thing about this, but only did advise us "not to fall back from the Roman Church, nor to turn aside from the commands of our Lord the Pope, who guards the keys of the kingdom (of heaven), and excommunicated every one who ever durst go beyond these words." . . .

(After several other remarks about the Maternity of the Blessed Virgin, and about the Natures in Christ, the letter goes on thus saying:) . . .
And Mar-Gabriel, in answer to me, said, We had received this from our predecessors, that there is no division between us and the Roman Church, except about certain ceremonies, of which all provinces have their own.—And the senior Israel said: Inasmuch as I have perceived from our ancient books, there is certainly no division, save that the one cannot understand the other; yet, as regards this question of yours, here is Father Adam, who from childhood has been brought up in retirement, see if he can tell you any thing about it.—And I said to Father Adam, What dost thou say about it?—He answered: Give me three days, and I will tell you what my infirmity shall prompt me to.—And I said to him, Be it so.—And he retired to his closet, and by the third day he brought this writing 11.—It pleased me, and all that were with me; and I handed to him the letters with my (profession of) faith, with your letters and your faith; and despatched him to our countries and to our flock; writing, if any one had aught to tell, he should bring it out.

And all our Oriental children received the blessing of your faith, by (your) holy letters; and within the year he (Father Adam) came back to me, taking with him letters, by which it was stated that all those who belong to our profession were ready to submit. And we greatly rejoiced for that, seeing that the wrong opinions concerning the current rumours that our faith was at variance with yours, were all dispelled and driven away.

I entrusted my dearest son (in Christ), Father

11 The writing here alluded to is that given in Doc. iii. p. 68.
Adam, Archdeacon of my Chamber, with this work; and lo I sent him, on the part of all the Orientals, to bow in adoration before the traces of your holy feet. All that it may please your Holiness to express, and to approve, will be accepted by us in the East. And let all that you command, and send us by him, be confirmed by examples and authorities, so that we may preach it to all our neighbours, and no one may dare to gainsay the utterances of your Holiness! Of all this, let us have, we entreat you, a written answer, (that we may understand) whether your Holiness has accepted it or not.

And all that you require, all that is proper and convenient, order us freely; for our head is bowed before the command of your Domination.

ABBOT. See ADAM and ANDREW.

ABDALLA (1444), Archbishop of Edessa, who submitted, in the name of IGNATIUS, Patriarch of Antioch, to EUGENIUS IV., in the Council of Florence.

ABDELAHAD (1600?), a Chaldean priest, who subscribed to the Synodical Epistle of the "Oriental Elias," to PAUL V.

ABDELMESSIAS or Abdelmasih (1593?), Legate of GABRIEL, the XCVIIth Patriarch of Alexandria, to CLEMENT VIII.

ABDIEL (Milton's Angel), p. 79 n.

ABGAR, in his letter to J. C., assumes the title of Rish athro, p. 38 n.

ABRAM (father of elevation); then Abraham (father of multitude), the great Patriarch of old, whose faith was most severely tried; after which the Messiah was promised to him. "One single letter was added—the letter of faith." See Ω H, and the very telling parallel between Abraham and St. Peter, D. ciii.

ABULFARAGIUS, (a friendly father). See BAR-HEBREUS.

ABU-NAZE, Yahia, Ibn Harir al Takriti (John, Son of Hariri of T.) (870?). A Syro-Jacobite Prelate, who wrote in Garsciuni a work called "the Confirmation," that is, a demonstration of the Articles of the Christian Law. D. xxv.

ABYSSINIA, Arabic, Habash, the same as ETHIOPIA. Hence the famous Queen of Sheba. See Lady Herbert's "Abyssinia and its Apostle." The jurisdiction of the See of St. Mark (ALEXANDRIA), reached even this remotest African region, p. 104. D. cli.

ADAM, or Mar-Adam, the Abbot (1560), Archdeacon of the Patriarchal Chamber of Babylon, "who from childhood was brought up in retirement;” — deputed by the Patriarch Elias to search into the ancient Chaldean Codices about the Roman Catholic faith; afterwards sent to Paul V. DD. ciii., ccxxviii.

Adamantius (1581) an Augustinian Orientalist, whom Gregory XIII. called from Trent to Rome, where he died, while translating the Talmud.

Adiabene, a Syrian region beyond the Tigris, facing Mossul.

Jeshujab was first Bishop of this place.

Æthiopia, the man of, p. 50 n.
Æthiopic, apparently the same as Coptic and Abyssinian. The Æthiopic Jacobites severed from the Roman Church (900), p. 81.

Allies, T. W., quoted pp. 31 n., 62 n., etc.
Ambrose, St., quoted p. 25 n.
Amida (from Ἀμιδ, Amed, Liberavit, Liberia, or a free town?), now Dierbeki, gives the name to the Turkish province of Karamit or Amida Nigra, a delightful plain on the banks of the Tigris. In 1616 a Synod for the union with the R. Church was there assembled.—About the famous Digression of St. James of Serug, “On the ruin of Amida,” see Abbeloos, p. 97, seq.—D. cxvii. p. 81.

Anatolius (468), Patriarch of Constantinople, after Flavian. D. cxx.
Anbara, now Phares Sapor, a city in Asia, of which Elias was Bishop. DD. xxvii., cxxix.

Andrew (1247), who brought to the Jacobite Patriarch Ignatius a letter from Pope Innocentius IV. The Patriarch calls him “a wise man, a man gifted with every virtue;” p. 110.
ANDREW (1447), the Abbot of St. Anthony in Egypt, legate of the Patriarch John to Eugenius IV., in whose presence he delivered the Oration quoted. D. cxvi.

ANGEI, p. 82 n. Cf. Risho, the guardian angel. "Light of Angels on us shine." Newman’s Gerontius has these beautiful lines:—

"This child of clay—to me was given

"O purest symbol of the Eternal Son!
Who dwelt in thee, as in some sacred shrine
To draw hearts after thee, and make them thine."
JOSEPH, the spouse of the Blessed Virgin, p. 23 n.

"As man and wife, being two, are one in love."

Shakespeare.

JOSEPH, (1600 ?), Legate of GABRIEL, Patr. of Alexandria. D. clxx.

JOSEPH, II. (b. 1660 ?), Bishop of Amida, afterwards Chald. Patriarch.

He wrote the "Bright Mirror," Speculum terrae, often quoted in the DD., Index II.

Iota, the great change it may cause in a translation, p. 24 n.

"I argue not

Against Heaven's hand or will; nor bate one jot

Of heart or hope; but still bear up and steer

Right onwards."

Milton.

ISAAC (400 ?), Nestorian Patriarch, who convened a Synod of 40 Bishops in Seleucia; the Nestorian Canonists attribute to him the Canon quoted D. exciv., p. 126.

ISRAEL (1600 ?), a Syro-Chaldean Priest, "the greatest of all grammatists," particularly desired by the Patriarch ELIAS to inquire about the truth of the Catholic faith. D. ult.

JUDGE of the old Israel compared with the JUDGE of the new (the Pope), "though he may be defective in his actions, he cannot err in matters of faith." D. cxxii.

JULIUS I. (337, 352) was "Bishop of Rome" during the Council of Sardica, whither he sent his legates. D. clxxi.

JULIUS III. (1550, 1555), during his Pontificate the Chaldean Patriarch Soulaka made his submission, and Moses of Mardin went to him as legate of the Jacobite Patr. IGNATIUS XVIIIth, who called him "the fifth Evangelist." "Garland of regenerate children," etc. D. clxviii.

"Brothers! spare reasoning,—men have settled long
That ye are out of date, and they are wise;
Use their own weapons, let your words be strong,
Your cry be loud, till each scared boaster flies;
Thus the Apostles tamed the pagan breast,
They argued not, but preach'd, and conscience did the rest."* Newman.

Kushého (veritas, truth), it has no plural, p. 31 n.
"All gifts below,
Save Truth, but grow
Towards an end."
Newman.

LADY (the Blessed—Sedes Sapientiae.). See MARY.

"I looked on that Lady, and out from her eyes Came the deep glowing blue of Italy's skies."

Laeta, the Roman lady to whom St. Jérome wrote about the education of her daughter, saying: "pro gemmis et sericis Divinos Codices amat." Epist. 107. See Paula.

LAMP—the CHURCH of Peter is the bright Lamp, from which all other lamps are lit up, p. 80, D. cxv.

"So we her flame must trim
Around His soul-converting Sign,
And leave the rest to Him."
Newman.

LANGUAGE—the Syrian (Arámean or Aramaic), like the Chaldean, a mere dialect was probably spoken by our Blessed Lord on this earth. See Preface and the Plea.
—Gift of Tongues. D. civ.

"Lord! has our dearth of faith and prayer
Lost us this power once given?
Or is it sent at seasons rare,
And then flits back to heaven?"
Newman.

LEGATE—a representative or commissioner of the Pope—occasionally of the Oriental Patriarchs.—See the instruction which the Coptic Patriarch GABRIEL gives to his Legates, D. clxx.

Λεγάτωρ. This never-dying overgrowth, is the nearest symbol of Eternity; yet—

"All growth has bound,
When greatest found
It hastes to die."

Newman.

LEO, St., (the Great), (440), during his Pontificate the Eutychian heresy was condemned in the Òecum. Council of Chalcedon, where he sent his Legates, the two Bishops PASCHASINUS and LUCENTIUS, with the two Priests BASIL and SENATOR. See these names, besides the DD. clxxviii., cxc.

LIBANUS (Lebanon), a famous chain of Mountains in Syria, between Tripoli and Damascus, especially renowned for its evergreen Cedars (Larix Cedrus):—The white Cedar of Lebanon (Cupressus Thyoides).—It is very scantily peopled with about forty much scattered villages. There the so-called Libanensis Synod (1736), presided over by the Apostolic Ablegate, JOSEPH SIMON ASSEMANN, was convened, AN. 1736. See D. ccxxvi.

Life—Christ is THE LIFE.

Τὸ Ἑωθήν, Ζωὴ ἀῤῥαβών.

"Son of our God, GIVER of life, alone."

St. Basil's Hymn (sec. i.). Lyr. Apost.

LIGHT, Light on the candlestick.—JULIUS III., D. ccvii.

The Church is always in the light, p. 22 n.

"God is my LIGHT, whom need I fear!"

"Lead, kindly LIGHT, amid the encircling gloom, Lead thou me on."

Newman.

"Hid are the saints of God," etc.

Newman.

Malphonio (magister, a teacher), p. 44 n.

Man. See Gabro.

"Son of immortal seed, high destined man!
Know thy dread gift,—a creature, yet a cause:
Each mind is its own centre, and it draws
Home to itself, and moulds in its thought's span
All outward things, the vassals of its will,
Aided by heaven, by earth unthwarted still."

Newman.

Mansi, quoted p. 62 n.

Manzoni, Inni sacri, the flower of Italian poetry, pp. xi., 29 n., 71, etc.

Mar (Dominus, Lord), like the French Monsieur, the English Sir, and the German Herr (so-and-so), is, in Syriac, a title given to every distinguished person, as Mar-Ephrem, Mar-Jacoub, etc., p. 83 n.
MAR-JACOUB, of Edessa, namesake of St. James of Serug, wrote the first Syriac Grammar (706), and did much to restore to its pristine purity the Syriac language.

Marapha (544), a Nestorian Patriarch, quoted D. ccxv.

Maras (451), the first Bishop of Amida, who assisted at the fifth Ecum. Council of Chalcedon.

Marcianus (391, 457), the Emperor—Addressed the Bishops assembled at the Council of Constantinople, p. 110.

Mardin, an Episcopal town in Mesopotamia, not far from Diarbek. There was a Moses of Mardin, and a John, Bishop of the "same town. It is still the resort-place of the Jacobite Patriarchs, who have their residence in Zafaran.

Mark, St., the Evangelist. See p. 104.

Married—the married Peter preferred to the Virgin John. D. xlvii.

"The married many thus might plead, I wean . . .
Take love away, and life would be defaced,
A ghastly vision on a howling waste!"

Newman.

Maro, or Maron, John (700?), the first Patriarch of the Maronites, to whom he gave his name. He wrote a Treatise De Sacerdotio, quoted in DD. cxxxiv., cli.

Maronites, so called from John Maron, of the sixth century, charged, though erroneously, with the heresy of the Monotheletites.—They have still nine Bishoprics in Alep, Damascus, Beirut, Seyde, Heliopolis, Potrim Djeball, Eden, Tripoli, and Cyprus—A. Laurent, "Relat. Hist. des Affaires de Syrie," 1846.—Their Patriarchs in their consecration take constantly the name of Peter. DD. cxxxiv., cli.

Martin I., St., (649, 655), a Pope, native of Todi, or according to Bar-Hebraeus, of Chalcedon, D. ccxii. In the Council of Lateran, he condemned the heresy of the Monothelites, the Ecstasy of the Emperor Heraclius and the Type of Constant, which was the cause of his exile and death in the Tanric Chersonese.

Mary, our Blessed Lady, mentioned pp. 23 n., 29 n., 133, etc.

"Ave Maria!
Thou, whose name
All but adoring love may claim!"

Causa nostre Lositiae.

"O Mary, mother blest,
Sweetest of earth's consolers, at thy name
The captive chains fall off, the voice of blame
Is still, the moan of grief, the cry of shame,
Are hush'd upon thy breast."—Oxenham.

Nineveh (dwelling of Ninus?), the famous town built by Asher (Gen. x. 11), on the left bank of the Tigris, opposite to Mossul. The "remains" of this once "exceedingly great city" are still wondered at in the British Museum.—A "Sign" to the men of Nineveh, Jonah had converted them by his predications; yet its heavy "burden" was soon given out by Nahum, after whom "she is empty, and void, and waste.”—According to our Lord’s promise, “The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it.” See page iv.

“When the rich town, that long Has lain its huts among,
Uprears its pageants vast,
And vaunts—it shall not last!
Bright tints that shine, are but a sign
Of summer past.”

Newman.

Penance, p. 39.—Rather than of any thing else, the Church is exultant of Penance.

"Yes! Let the fragrant scars abide,
Love-tokens in Thy stead,
Faint shadows of the spear-pierced side,
And thorn-encompass’d head.

And such Thy tender force be still,
When self would swerve or stray,
Shaping to truth the forward will Along Thy narrow way.

Deny me wealth; far, far remove
The lure of power or name;
Hope thrives in straits, in weakness love,
And faith in this world’s shame.”

Newman.

MONKS.

"Had he not of wealth his fill
Whom a garden gay did bless,
And a gently trickling rill,
And the sweets of idleness?"

"I make answer:—'Is it easy
Fasts to keep and tears to shed,
Vigil hours and wounded knees,
Call you these a pleasant bed?'

"Thus a veritable monk
Does to death his fleshly frame;
Be there who in sloth are sunk,
They have forfeited the name."

tertia die hanc scripturam attulit. Et placuit mihi et omnibus meis, qui mecum fuerunt; et dedi illi literas simul cum fide mea, et tuis epistolis atque fide, et misi illum ad regiones et gregem nostrum scribens: quod si quis habeat aliquid respondendum, afferat. et benedictionem omnes filii Orientis a Fide Tua acceperunt ex epistolis sanctis: et anni curriculo reversus est ad me, afferens mihi literas, in quibus erat, quod illi omnes, qui sunt ex professione nostra sese submittebant.

Et magnum gaudium de his percepimus, et sublatae sunt omnes false opiniones contra id, quod dicebatur, quod nostra fides cum vestra non conveniebat.

Hoc opus patri Ade filio meo dilectissimo, cubiculi mei Archidiono tradidi, et ecce eum misi, ut ante vestigia pedum sanctorum tuorum ex parte omnium Orientalium adoret. Et omne id quod dicit et admittit sanctitas Tua, receptum apud nos Orientales est. Et omne id quod præcipis, et cum eo mittis, confirma exemplis et auctoritatibus, ut omnibus circumvicinis gentibus prædicemus; et nemo verbis Tuae Sanctitatis contradicere audeat; et responsum illorum omnium scribe: an receptum est apud Tuam Sanctitatem nec ne: et nobis præcipe id omne, quod scis et decet, atque convenit, et nostrum caput submissum est ante præceptum Tuae Dominationis.
omnes eos, qui ab Ecclesia Romana defece-runt, excommunicaverunt; et simul omnes, conculcatores præcepti Domini Papæ, qui est loco S. Petri, fundamenti Ecclesiarum, et Capitis Apostolorum.

Sed video in professione nostra quod sit aliquid, quod non videatur juxta professionem Papæ, et Patres nostri de hoc nihil scripserunt, sed hoc solum admonuerunt: Ne nos ab Ecclesia Romana deficeremus, neque a præcepto Domini Papæ habentis claves regni declinaremus; et definiverunt et excommunicaverunt omnes transgressores horum verborum.

Et Dominus Gabriel mihi respondit: quod nos ita accepimus a nostris antecessoribus, quod non sit divisio inter nos et Ecclesiam Romanam, nisi per ceremonias: et illi ita in omnibus regionibus suis suas ceremonias tenent. Et dixit mihi senior Israel: quantum ego e libris nostris antiquis percepi, sane non est uta alia divisio, nisi quod alter alterum non intelligit. Verum de hac peti-tione tua, ecce pater Adam ante te, qui exadolescentia in solitudine probatus est, si aliquid tibi potest respondere. Et patri nostro Adæ dixi: quid dicis de iis? Respondit; concede spatum trium dierum, et respondebro tibi tertia die quantum potest infirmitas mea, et quantum sufficiat. Et dixi: concedatur tibi spatum: et ivit ad cubiculum suum, et Fides servi fidelis est, qui Domino suo nihil abscondit, sed omnia sicut sunt, Domino suo aperit. Propter hoc me servum humilem et peccatorem Eliam, sedem Babylonis custodientem, decet aperire verum ante Paternitatem sanctam Tuam, o Domine Papa Paule quinte, corona christianitatis, et caput caputum et Pastorum Ecclesiae sanctae et alienae ab omni haeresi.

Diu perquisivimus, et diligenter perscrutati sumus nos Orientales de Fide, secunda hac vice, qua ad nos Tuas literas misisti; et vocavi; Dominum Gabrielem seniorem omnibus Archiepiscopis, et sacerdotem Israel, maximum omnium grammaticorum, et dominum Adam Abbatem, et dixi eis: quoniam in nostra natione nullus est perspicacior vos, determinemus quid faciendum. Nam ecce libri nostri admonent nos de Ecclesiae sancta, et de sede Apostolica Domini Papae Romae, quoniam ipse est Pater Patrum, Caput Pastorum, eum audite, et non decline a praecesso suo. Et Patres nostri orientales, Et sedes nostra Babylonica non ex se electa est, sicut aliorum haereticorum, qui sine lege multiplicaverunt Patriarchas in universo sine sede Ecclesiae magnae Romae: sed ex praecepto Papae et ex consilio Ecclesiae Romanae electa est sedes Babylonis; et ita scriptum invenitur apud nos in annalibus ...

Sicitaque acceperimus potestatem usque adhuc, et non a nobis ipsis aliquod fecimus, ut reliqui qui Apostolorum canones conculcaverunt, et leges Patrum, et impleverunt terram Patriarchis sine necessitate.

CXVIII.

Et non obsistam, sicuti eæteri hæretici, contra præceptum sanctorum Apostolorum et Patrum Orthodoxorum, qui affirmaverunt, quod sedes Romæ magna teneret principatum; et ipsa est caput omnium sediorum: absit a me; sed fateor, quod Ecclesia Romana sit Mater Ecclesiarum. Et qui hæc non ita fatetur, sit anathema.

CXIX.
CXVI.

Quae omnia et similia considerans, ex-pavesco Tuam alloqui Sanctitatem, cum maxime ante oculos mentis proponam non solum potestatem Tuam, sed sapientiam Latinorum, qui in studio sapientiae divinarum rerum, et disciplinae Jesu Christi, quod a principio salutis fidelium imbiberunt, continuo in hae tempora exercitati, ea nunc tenent et sentiunt, quae beatissimi Apostolorum principes Petrus et Paulus illis a principio tradiderunt: quae autem Ecclesiae (Orientalis), hujusmodi sapientia et disciplina aliquando privatæ, prima non tenuerunt fundamenta, et a Romana Ecclesia matre et magistra separatæ fuerunt, eae permisit Deus gentibus in opprobrium, et infidelibus in rapinam, prout evidenter cernere datur in Græcis et Armenis, et pariter in nobis Æthiopibus Jacobitis, postquam anno nonacentesimo a vobis fuimus separati.

CXVII.

Quia sicut est unus Deus Pater, et unus Filius Dominus Christus, Deus super omnia, et unus Spiritus Sanctus omnipotens; sic una est fides de illo, et una Ecclesia sancta Romæ, mater omnium Ecclesiarum, a sapiente Architecto ædificatore universi.
CXIII.

Confitemur iterum, quod Sacrosancta Romana Ecclesia est Mater et Caput omnium Ecclesiarum, et ipsa est in qua sunt reposita corpora beatorum Petri et Pauli.

CXIV.

Concordamus siquidem cum beato Petro, et confitemur eum fundamentum esse Ecclesia, sicut nominavit eum Christus petram, dicens: super hanc petram aedificabo Ecclesiam meam; et ideo Ecclesia, in qua est corpus ejus repositum, est mater omnium ecclesiarum in universo mundo, et dicimus et prædicamus, quod ipsa est lampas lucens, ex qua omnes aliae lampades succenduntur.

[النص غير واضح أو غير قابل للقراءة من الصورة.]
nostra est: quoniam ista filiatio est domus Abrahæ, et non gentium externarum; quia promissionem promisit Dominus cum eo, et cum omni semine suo in æternum. Ita illi homines, qui non generantur spiritualiter a Patribus Petri, ab uno quoque Papa sui temporis, prohibentur a filiatione spirituali Petri: et nullo modo possunt vocare Deum, Patrem nostrum, qui es in caelis; quoniam familiae Petri concessit Dominus Deus, ut ita vocarent eum, et non alienis a fide Petralium. Et omnis vir qui non conciliatur, et regitur sub sceptro horum Pastorum Petri (seu Romanorum Pontificum), non est ex grege Christi; quoniam Dominus Petro dixit Pasce agnos meos, pasce oviculas meas, et pasce oves meas; et nemini praeter eum.

CIV.

CV.
Abrahæ autem nonnisi addita est una littera he (ὁ) quæ est fides; non enim amplius nomen tuum vocabitur Abram, sed
Abraham, quoniam Patrem multarum gentium constitui te. Petrus autem perfecte deposuit hominem veterem et renovatus est
Christo; Tu es Simon Barjona, et Petra vocaberis et super hanc petram ædificabo Ecclesiam meam. Abrahæ dictum est: Benedicam benedicentes te, maledicam maledicen-tes te. Petro decretum est: Tibi dabo claves regni cælorum, et quodcumque ligaveris super terrarum, erit ligatum in cælo; et quodcumque solveris super terram, erit solutum in cælo.

Promissio Abrahæ, sunt teræ populorum et regna gentium. Promissio Petri est potestas super civitates animarum, et sessio super sedes in cælo.

In lege vero naturali familia Abrahæ ab uno ad alium in carne et naturaliter producta est, donec terminata esset in revelatione Dei, qui incarnatus est. In lege spiri-tuali Petri producitur a Papa ad Papam usque ad secundum adventum Filii hominis qui deificatus est. Quemadmodum autem ii, qui non sunt nati naturaliter ex Patribus, quì descenderunt a semine Abrahæ, a filia-tione Abrahæ prohibentur, et alieni sunt ab ea voce, quæ est in Propheta Dominus sors CIII.

Orthodoxis et sapientibus notum est, quod tota gubernatio veteris legis sit parabola, et exemplum novæ legis: ibi enim idea et figura, hic autem est corpus et perfectio; quoniam id omne, quod scriptum est in Glossa, scilicet in sacra Scriptura et prophetis, in Christo completum est. Sed quoniam de Fide nobis dicendum est in præsentia, de ipsa agamus. Fidem enim apud Abraham in veteri illustratam esse videmus, quoniam Deo credidit, et vivificatus est; Pater gentibus datus est. In nova vero apud Petrum celebrata, et completa ipsa Fides est, et constitutus lapis fundamento Ecclesieæ Dei; et omne ædificium, cujus fundamenta non jaciuntur super hoc fundamentum, non erigitur, nec perfici potest culmen, quod est Christus.

Itaque omne id, quod est apud Abraham figurate et particulariter, atque temporaliter intelligite; et quod est apud S. Petrum spiritualiter et perfecte, et in sempiternum comparete. . . .

Et quæmadmodum Abraham fuit Pater Patrum in lege veteri, sic fuit Petrus in nova. . . .

ابني بيعتي. اي اني الصلح والاساس الذي بك
تقني جماعة المومنة بي السالكة في اعتقادها وامانتها
مسللكك لبا اعترفت بالحق واخذ الاب لك من السماء
والتي لا تزعمها أبواب الهاوية. الجدي.
يعني الناس الكفرة والملوثة الجورة والسلطانيون الظلمة وإصحاب
البدع والاعتقادات الرذيلة. فمن حري عنها فليس من
اولاد النور ولا من الذين بنوا بيئتهم على الصحراء الصد
الذي (التي) لما هاج البحر وضربتها امواجه لم تتزعزع
كما ضرب لها المستحث المثل. ولست كثيرا من الجماعات
التي بنت بيئتها على ارض رملة فلا جاوة الامطار
والرياح وهاج البحر وضربتها امواجه تهانت
وتصاقطت وانقلعت اصولها واساساتها اذ لم يكون بيانها على شعون الصفاء.
